U. S. Calls For Teeth in Germ, A-Ban

Won't Yield Arms Without Guarantee

By A. M. ROSENTHAL

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Aug. 15—The United States said today that it will give no pledges not to use atomic, chemical and bacteriological weapons until strict international control has become a reality.

Commitments now, the United States declared, would be an invitation to aggression and would give future aggressors their choice of weapons. And once again the United States used plain language to say that it would make no paper promises—and accept none.

"NO THREATS"

Benjamin V. Cohen, U. S. delegate, told the United Nations Disarmament Commission that the United States was "issuing no ultimatums" and "making no threats." He put it clearly into the record that the United States condemned the use of germ war weapons as well as any other kind of force.

But the United States, Cohen said, put no faith in promises without guarantees and stood strongly for an effective system of international control to eliminate all weapons of mass destruction.

"NO INVITATIONS"

"But we do not intend, before such measures and safeguards have been agreed upon, to invite aggression by informing would-be aggressors and charter-breakers that we will not use certain weapons to suppress aggressions. To do so in exchange for mere paper promises would be to give would-be aggressors their own choice of weapons."

Cohen sought to dispel doubts that the United States included germ weapons in the Western proposals for stage-by-stage arms reduction and elimination of weapons of mass destruction. He denied Soviet statements that effective international control of bacterial weapons was not feasible.

3 Officers Indicted on Flog Charge

MACON, Aug. 15—(AP)—A county sheriff, his deputy, and a Georgia State Patrol sergeant today faced federal charges of jailing and beating a Negro man and woman in violation of their constitutional rights.

Sheriff W. E. Henson, 56, of Marion County, Deputy Sheriff Clyde Chester Henson, his son, and Sgt. Brown Jordan of the Americus station of the State Patrol are named as defendants in an indictment returned by a Federal Grand Jury here this week.

The indictment was released after arrangements were made for arrest of the defendants. It was returned in U. S. District Court here Wednesday. The case will be ready for trial in Columbus the week of Sept. 2.

The indictment charges Sheriff Henson, his son and Jordan "acting under the color of law as peace officers," went to the residence of Alvertis Davis, a Negro man, after Davis' wife had made a complaint about her husband's conduct to the sheriff. Davis' home is in Buena

TRUMAN ADDRESSES CIO POLITICAL ACTION COMMITTEE AT WHITE HOUSE

Mississippi Party Eyes Two Slates

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 15—(AP)—Mississippi's delegation to the Democratic national convention refused today to bind itself to the party ticket as state Democrats prepared for a showdown convention Monday.

In a stormy session this afternoon with Gov. Hugh White, several high-ranking party leaders indicated that a move will be made at the reconvened convention to nominate two separate slates of electors. One would be pledged to Gov. Adlai Stevenson and the other unpledged.

Former Gov. Fielding Wright, party leader Wallace W. Wright and House speaker Walter Sillers said they would favor such a move.

The delegation was summoned here today by Governor White, chairman, to write its report to the full state convention. When the delegates were named June 26 the convention recessed to await their report before taking "appropriate action."

It had been assumed here that the convention would follow the advice of White and Sen. John Stennis and endorse the Stevenson-Sparkman ticket in the pattern set by Georgia and South Carolina Democrats.

Former Lt. Gov. Sam Lumpkin, a delegate to the state but not the national convention, plans to ask the convention Monday to endorse Republican nominee Dwight D. Eisenhower. Lumpkin and his followers have formed an organization of "States' Rights" Democrats to continue their fight for an Eisenhower ticket if the convention rejects Lumpkin's move.

Tobacco Prices Drop $5 to $8; 6 Marts Close

Truman Hears Murray Blast Ike, Back Adlai

By JOSEPH A. LOFTUS

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Philip Murray, CIO president primed his state and city leaders for the political campaign with an attack today on statements made by General Eisenhower, Republican candidate for President.

Later, in the rose garden of the White House, Murray introduced President Truman to the same group and called him "the greatest friend labor ever had in my lifetime." Mr. Truman, praising the Democratic nominee, Governor Stevenson of Illinois, as an honorable and a progressive man, said:

"We are going to do exactly again what we did in 1948 and we are going to make them like it."

About 300 attended the Political Action Committee rally. They came largely from the state and city industrial union councils, the central bodies of the CIO below the national level.

Seeking to provide this group with ammunition for the campaign, Murray first cited a letter from Eisenhower to Leonard V. Finder of New Hampshire in 1948, quoting:

"The necessary and wise subordination of the military to the civil power will be best sustained when lifelong professional soldiers abstain from seeking high political office."

He then referred to a speech made by Eisenhower at Galveston, Texas, Dec. 8, 1948, quoting him:

"If all Americans want is security, they can go to prison. They can go to bed, have enough to eat and a roof over their heads."

Murray, in sarcasm, said:

"That, of course, is a fine statesmanlike, broad vision of what

Adlai Tours Of All U. S. Are Mapped

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 15—Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois explored labor and farm issues, two vital fields in the presidential campaign, and mapped plans for a stumping tour of California today on the eve of a Democratic campaign strategy committee meeting to outline the party's bid for another administration.

That the Democratic presidential nominee plans a "terrific campaign" was gleaned from Arthur Goldberg of Chicago, general counsel of the Congress of Industrial Organizations and an old personal friend of the governor.

"He will make several trips all over the country," according to Goldberg, who said he had a glance at the tentative schedule set up for the governor by his campaign advisers.

"It certainly will be a vigorous campaign to carry his program and message all over the country." Goldberg said.

The first campaign committee to arrive at the executive mansion was Secretary of the Interior Os-

Ike To Court Labor Vote, Nixon Says

By W. H. LAWRENCE

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

DENVER, Aug. 15—Senator Nixon of California, Republican vice-presidential nominee, declared today that the Republicans are not going to write off the labor vote in 1952 and that General Eisenhower is trying to rearrange his itinerary so he can appear in person before the AFL convention in New York City.

Nixon said he thought there would be "a major defection" this year among the rank and file of organized labor away from "left wing leadership that consistently supported New and Fair Deal candidates." He referred especially to the action of the top leadership of the CIO which yesterday endorsed the Democratic ticket headed by Governor Stevenson of Illinois. Nixon charged this was due to what he called "left wing leadership" represented by Jack Kroll of the CIO's Political Action Committee.

Speaking for Eisenhower as well as himself, the California senator declared:

"We are not going to write off the socalled organized labor vote simply because a few top leaders have declared their personal favoritism for the other candidate."

The nominee held a news con-

GOP Entry Certified In DeKalb House Race

By M. L. ST. JOHN

For perhaps the first time in history, a Republican is planning to run for State Representative from DeKalb County.

Charles A. Moye Jr., 34, chairman of the DeKalb County Republican committee, has been certified to Mrs. Katherine Mann, DeKalb County ordinary, as a Republican candidate for the House.

Moye wants to run against Mell Turner, Decatur mayor, who narrowly defeated Rep. James Mackay in the Democratic primary last May.

Only three of the 259 members of the current Georgia Legislature are Republicans. They came from the traditionally mountain Republican counties of Pickens and Fannin. They are Sen. Tom Chastain of Talking Rock (Pickens County) and Reps. Hayes Pickett of Pickens County and Reid Mull of Fannin County.

Unaccustomed to qualifying Republicans, the ordinary asked the county attorney to look into the credentials. County Attorney Julius

Marines Exact 2,100 Red Toll

TOKYO, Saturday, Aug. 16—(UP)—American Marines bowling grenades down Bunker Hill early today shattered two more Chinese Communist attempts to recapture the embattled height on the western Korean front.

The seventh and eighth counterattacks in the past five days by the badly mauled Reds were much feebler than earlier fanatic attempts to retake the strategic hill. The first assault this morning ended in 50 minutes and the second lasted but 10 minutes.

2,000 KILLED

Marine officers estimated that an entire Red regiment of about 2,000 men had been virtually annihilated in the first four counterattacks.

The first platoon of what turned out to be a 750-man battalion of Communists hit the hill at 12:30 a. m. after enemy artillery had laid down a protective screen. The Reds were balked by Allied Artillery and mortar fire and by grenades that exploded in their midst after being rolled over the crest of the hill by the defenders, United Press correspondent Frederick Painton reported.

The Reds uncorked another artillery preparation at 5:20 a. m., followed it by "walking forward" a screen of mortar shellfire. Through the screen advanced an undetermined number of the enemy.

REEL BACK

But for the eighth time the shattered fragments of the Communist battalion reeled back in defeat from shell-pocked slopes littered with their dead.

Before today's assaults, Eighth Army headquarters estimated officially that the Leathernecks had killed or wounded almost 2,100 Reds at Bunker Hill in their toughest battle on the West Korean front.

Maj. Gen. John T. Selden, commander of the First Marine Division, said yesterday he believed the Reds would not attack again. But he added that his tough young Marines were ready for anything the Communists decided to try.

Grocer Plans To Defy Milk Pricing Order

The Georgia Milk Control Board faces a new court test of its price-fixing power as the result of its latest milk-price hike.

Paul W. Newsome, Columbus grocer, has served notice that he will defy the board and sell milk at whatever price he pleases after Sept. 1.

An order of the board increasing the price of milk two cents a quart in most of the state goes into effect Sept. 1.

Milk Control Board director Charles G. Duncan was unavailable for comment but his office acknowledged receipt of Newsome's letter.

George D. Stewart, an attorney for the Milk Control Board, said Newsome can set his own price for purchasing milk if he enters into an agreement with a distributor. The Milk Control Act permits the board to fix prices if distributors, stores, producers and consumers do not have a private price agreement among themselves.

Virtually all the milk sold in milk control sheds is sold at the price fixed by the board.

If Newsome, who has attacked the board in the past, is determined to make a test case by defying the board, the board probably

FRANK COSTELLO GOES TO FEDERAL PRISON

Gambling Czar Costello Starts 18-Month Term

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(U.P.)—The government today put Frank Costello in jail, a place the notorious underworld figure has avoided for 37 years.

"He is entitled to what he's getting," said Senator Kefauver (Dem., Tenn.) whose Senate crime committee was instrumental in jailing the gambler.

"I don't want any favors from anybody," said Costello.

He got none as he was ushered to a cell to start serving 18 months for contempt of the Senate, a charge stemming from his defiance of Kefauver's committee.

The 63-year-old boss racketeer sent word to reporters from his dimly lit cell through Deputy Marshall Al Gibson:

"Tell the boys I've made up my mind to come in and do my bit. I don't want any favors from anybody. I want to be treated like everybody else."

It was the first time Costello went to jail since he served 10 months in 1915 on a gun-carrying charge.

Costello smiled wanly as he entered Room 13 to give himself up at the federal courthouse.

He was the first to be jailed of 48 witnesses who balked at answering questions of the Senate Crime Committee. Many of the cases are pending, 22 have been tried, 14 were acquitted and three convictions later were reversed.

The gambler showed up 20 minutes ahead of scheduled surrender time in a blue sedan driven by a hefty gray-haired man and accom-

Crash Kills Chauffeur to Talmadge

George Harrelson, chauffeur to Governor Talmadge and lieutenant with the Georgia Bureau of Investigation, was killed late Friday and three other persons injured when a speeding auto rammed into another car at Houston and Howell Streets, struck two pedestrians and then a tree, police said.

Lois Eberhardt, Negro, of 543 Houston St., N. E., walking with her child, Mary, was struck by the car driven by Harrelson and hurled over a fence, Lt. E. B. Brooks said.

The mother was admitted to Grady Hospital with a fractured leg and internal injuries. The child suffered shock and bruises.

Tommy Lee Turner, Negro, of 543 Pulliam St., S. W., driver of the second auto involved, also was admitted to Grady with severe cuts and bruises.

Brooks said witnesses told him the Harrelson auto, headed east on Houston St., "must have been going 100 miles per hour." After striking the Turner car, Brooks said, the Harrelson auto careened up the street 50 yards, struck the pedestrians and slid into a huge tree with sufficient force to cave in the side of the 1952 automobile.

Paul Turner, a brother of Tommy Lee Turner, said the two were headed south on Howell St., stopped for the intersection and then proceeded across.

Pat Morgan, Free on Bond, Taken in Raid

By KEELER McCARTNEY

In a swift raid at Ponce de Leon baseball park detectives Friday night arrested 16 persons on gambling charges, including J. H. "Pat" Morgan, 32, who was freed Wednesday on $15,000 bond on 26 counts of forgery.

At police headquarters, Morgan refused to be fingerprinted or to give the name of his wife and relatives for identification bureau records. Station Lt. W. L. Jay said turnkeys searching Morgan found in his pocket a razor-sharp stilletto.

Morgan, who has an extensive police record for assault with intent to rape, burglary and robbery, was released under $500 bond on charges of operating a lottery, $100 for violating the knife ordinance and $100 for refusing to be fingerprinted. The charges are scheduled for trial at 7:30 a. m. Saturday in Recorder's Court.

CERTIFICATES SEIZED

Investigating officers said with the arrest of Morgan Wednesday they seized a quantity of bogus auto registration certificates which allegedly were being mailed to an auto sales company in Texas. They added Morgan admitted forging the certificates.

The ball park raid was conducted in the bleacher section so quietly that baseball fans in the grandstand did not notice the incident. Det. Supt. Glyn Cowan, who planned the raid, said detectives had kept the park under surveilance during the past three weeks.

Friday night, during the Atlanta-Memphis game, the detectives moved quietly in, basing arrests upon information gathered previously. Several men blocked exits at the bleachers while other moved silently among the seats, pausing now and then to tap a person on the shoulder and whisper orders.

OTHERS ARRESTED

In addition to Morgan, those arrested for operating a lottery and placed under $500 bond, according to police, included: W. H. Roberts, 36, of 761 Pulliam St., S. W.; R. H. Watts, 47, of 1436 Lakewood Dr., S. E.; H. L. Plunkett, 36, of 519 Oakland Ave., S. W.

U. S. Challenges North Koreans To Put Bids Before Truce Session

By WALTER H. WAGGONER

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15 — The State department challenged the North Korean Communists today to put before the truce conference at Panmunjom any "specific proposals" they might have for ending the Korean war.

Responding to a statement in Parliament by Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier, that North Korea would sign an armistice on the basis of a drawn battle, with neither victor nor vanquished, the State department said it assumed that if the premier had "any specific proposals to make it is a relatively simple matter for him to speak up at Panmunjom."

The department emphasized that it "could see nothing new" in the Kim Il Sung statement.

In that way, the United States discouraged speculation that the North Korean premier's statement should be regarded as a "peace move" or an open effort to bring the Korean war to an end.

Almost always willing to hope, diplomatic authorities admitted to hoping that the North Korean premier sought to offer some encouragement to those seeking an end to the war. They emphasized at the same time that there was nothing in the statement itself that would give such encouragement.

The comment of the United States, issued through Michael J. McDermott, State department press officer, stressed that the truce talks had been narrowed down to a single issue, the problem of the prisoners of war.

Describing its attitude toward the negotiations as "unchanged," the State department said that the United Nations negotiators had "put forward eminently reasonable proposals for a resolution of the prisoner of war problem, the only basic issue which appears to stand in the way of an armistice agreement."

The North Korean premier's statement, delivered on the eve of

Special Meet To Ready McDaniel Work Plan

By HERMAN HANCOCK

A special meeting of the Municipal Planning Board has been called for 9 a. m. Saturday to take action under which the multi-million dollar redevelopment of 139 acres in the McDaniel St. area will be sent to City Council Monday.

Max M. Cuba, commission chairman, called the session late Friday after urging that action be taken to clear the way for a court test of the act under which the Atlanta Housing Authority, the federal government and the city will cooperate in eliminating sub-standard fringe areas surrounding the central business district. A meeting for a final action by the commission had previously been set for next Thursday.

Mayor Hartsfield predicted that the commission and City Council will approve the project, laying the foundation for the court test of whether the right of emminent domain is operative against property for redevelopment purposes.

William G. McRae, attorney, representing opponents and property owners, has promised an all-out battle to test the validity of the act. He contends it is unconstitutional.

Area of the proposed improvement lies generally between Whitehall and Windsor Sts., Georgia Ave. and the Southern Railroad.

To Open Bond Bids

Mayor Hartsfield will call a special meeting of City Council for 2 p. m. Wednesday to act on the sale of $6,000,000 in city bonds to finance completion of the city's share of the expressway. Bids on the bonds will be opened at noon Wednesday. Hartsfield and administration leaders say the city should move as rapidly as possible to complete the sale if an acceptable bid is received.

Appeals Adversed

The Municipal Board of Zoning Adjustment Friday adversed five petitions, approved five others and held one other for further study. Adversed were variances for properties at 504 Seminole Ave., N. E., 2045 Robson Pl., N. E.; 2070 Ridgedale Rd., N. E.; Cain St., N. E., near Fort St., and 943 Highland Terrace, N. E. Held for further study was a petition for a building line variation for a site on Cascade Rd., S. W., near Lorraine Rd. All other petitions were approved.

Says No Hurt Meant

Mayor Hartsfield Friday explained that his invitation for Ben Hill to annex to Atlanta was in no way intended to hurt East Point. The statement followed criticism of Hartsfield's offer by East Point officials who said Hartsfield apparently wants to force East Point to come into Atlanta by denying that city a reasonable expansion of its limits. "My statement that we would provide water for Ben Hill if it became a part of Atlanta was in response to numerous requests by Ben Hill citizens," Hartsfield added. "There was no thought of hurting East Point or any other municipality."

TV ACTRESS HELD

Vice Raiders Nab Oleo Heir, 6 N. Y. Models

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(INS)—Minot F. (Mickey) Jelke, playboy heir to margarine millions, was arrested and charged with compulsory prostitution today as chief procurer of a Manhattan "call-girl" ring.

The 22-year-old social registerite, escort of the nation's most eligible debutantes, was accused of supplying cafe society beauties, chiefly models and TV actresses, to wealthy businessmen for from $50 to $300 a night.

Seized with Jelke was a pretty blonde, Sylvia Eder, 24, held as a material witness. Also seized, they said, was a "little black book" with names, prospects, and prices, and two guns for which Jelke had no license.

Simultaneously with Jelke's arrest, other raiders knocked on the doors of a series of plush flats and came up with:

Barbara Harman, 31, tall and blonde. She said she has appeared on many network TV shows.

Erica Steel, 28, small and redheaded. She said she does bit parts on TV. Police charged her with being a madam.

Nancy Hawkins, 23, a statuesque blonde model.

Joan Douglas, 20, a brunette model, who has received wide acclaim in cafe society.

Ray Russell, 34, a publicist, who has handled several of the better known night clubs and movie stars. He was charged with compulsory prostitution, receiving the earnings of postitutes and conspiracy.

Gloria Sinclair, 24, Russell's wife.

A number of other persons held as material witnesses were not identified, including a beautiful 20-year-old red-haired "mystery woman."

'AVERAGE CHILD'

Britain Hails Young Princess on Birthday

LONDON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Considring what a little girl she is, a lot of flags flew today for Princess Anne.

It was the second birthday anniversary of the fair-haired, blue-eyed child who is second in succession to the British throne. She celebrated up in Scotland's Balmoral Castle.

Many of the big buildings in London and other cities unfurled their flags. Newspapers speculated in ponderous articles on what destiny might have in store for Anne.

But the princess does not know she is a child of destiny. She does not know she is a princess.

Her mother, Queen Elizabeth II, has insisted that—as nearly as possible—the princess and her big brother, 3-year-old Prince Charles, shall be reared as average children in a good British home.

So there is no nonsense, as there used to be in royal families, such as curtsying to babies or calling them "your highness."

At the little birthday party at Balmoral, the little girl was called "Anne" by all who came in contact with her, including the royal family servants.

The birthday party was a family affair, but it was stated there were suitable gifts from her father, the Duke of Edinburgh, her mother, her brother and from her grandmother and great-grandmother, the Queens Elizabeth and Mary.

SLEPT TWO NIGHTS IN WOODS

Lost Teen-Ager Found Half Mile From Home

JACKSON, N. H., Aug. 15—(AP)—Wiry Charlotte Cook, 13-year-old Windham Center, Conn., vacationist who spent two nights lost in the woods of White Mountain National Park, was found today.

The child suffered no serious injuries in her wanderings since Wednesday.

Searchers found her on East Branch Trail, which would have led her to the summer home of Maxwell Foster, Ipswich, Mass., lawyer, to which she had been headed when she lost her way.

"I knew somebody would find me," she said confidently.

But she had prayed for help despite her nonchalance.

PRAYED FOR HELP

A prayer she said she offered while in the woods was:—

"Dear God: Please help searchers find me so that I can find my way home. I am pretty well lost. Amen."

Charlotte and her aunt, Mrs. Margaret Cook of Beverly, Mass., had picnicked with others at Mountain Pond four miles away Wednesday. Charlotte decided to return home before the rest of the group.

As she walked the trail she picked berries. Before she knew it, she was lost.

SLEPT IN COMFORT

With her canvas knapsack for a pillow she slept during the two nights. She was dressed in blue jeans, a plaid shirt and sneakers.

"I slept well," she told her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eden C. Cook and Charlotte's brother, Chandler, 17, in their happy reunion—hugs and kisses—at the Foster home.

During the daylight hours Charlotte just wandered around. When she was found she was less than a half-mile from the Foster house, which had been turned into a headquarters for more than 100 searchers.

She wasn't hungry.

"I had plenty of berries to eat," she said with a grin.

Two bloodhounds used in the search had led members of the posses nearly five miles astray.

AFL Starts Cleanup of City Locals

By STANLEY LEVEY

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 15—The American Federation of Labor, breaking its tradition of no interference in the affairs of its autonomous affiliates, began today to clean "strangers" with unsavory reputations out of the federation.

Although George Meany, secretary-treasurer of the AFL, refused to call the move an antiracketeering one, it is well known that he and other top officials have been greatly concerned over the way ex-convicts and persons with gangster records have recently been moving into unions in New York and other large cities.

This feeling led the AFL Executive Council last May to set up a special committee to investigate the issuance of local charters by international unions to questionable characters, ex-convicts and "professional organizers" with no legitimate attachment to the labor movement.

Meany, chairman of the committee, reported to the final quarterly session of the Executive Council today that the International Jewelry Workers Union had been ordered to withdraw a charter granted to a roving Midwest organizer to unionize carnival workers.

In addition the committee kept alive its inquiry into doings and personalities of Local 102 of the United Automobile Workers—AFL in New York. This local is run by John Dioguardi, alias Johnny Dio, who was convicted in 1937 in the trucking industry extortion racket of Louie (Lepke) Buchalter.

Egypt Asks Death for Mill Rioter

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug 15 (AP) — A military prosecutor asked the death penalty today for a worker accused of being a ringleader of a labor riot Wednesday in the cotton mill town of Kafr El Dawar, near Alexandria.

The case against Mustafa Khamis, first of a number of demonstrators to be tried in connection with the bloody riots, was closed after the prosecutor declared Khamis' actions constituted high treason.

The Wednesday disturbance, touched off by demands for more pay, took an officially announced toll of nine lives, including those of a policeman and two soldiers, brought injury to 23 others and caused thousand of dollars damage.

Following the riot, Egypt's new strong man, Army commander in chief Maj. Gen. Mohammed Naguib, declared anyone responsible for disturbing the nation's stability was guilty of high treason and would be executed.

The specific charges against Khamis said he led the demonstrators and participated in the killing of the two soldiers and in the destruction of cotton mill equipment.

The court said it would not announce a sentence against Khamis until the sentence was approved by Premier Aly Maher in his capacity as Egypt's military governor under martial law.

Indians Told To Shun Cult Of Violence

100,000 Hear Nehru Blast Reds

By ROBERT TRUMBULL

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW DELHI, Aug. 15—Prime Minister Nehru seized upon the occasion of India's fifth anniversary of her independence today to strike another verbal blow at this country's Communist Party. Speaking from the ramparts of the immense Red Fort of the Moghul Emperor Shah Jehan, he was heard by more than 100,000 persons, according to newspaper estimates.

"There are some people who are raising their voice in support of a cult of violence," the Prime Minister said. "They maintain that through a violent struggle alone can the nation progress and the cause of the workers and peasants be achieved. If this method is followed it will surely ruin the country."

Nehru's remarks, in view of some recent Communist speeches in Parliament, were clearly directed at the Reds. P. Sundarayya, the Communist Party's parliamentary leader, had declared in the upper house this week that the Communists possessed arms that they would not surrender unless granted immunity from arrest, and he later said that if the Communists ever came to power here they would "put the landlords and Jagirdars (feudal landholders(and black marketeers not in dentention but before the people, try them there and shoot them."

This remark, like Sundarayya's admission that the Communists hold illicit arms, produced widespread revulsion in a country where nonviolence in the revolutionary processes, as in daily life, is a holy tradition.

"We have to guard ourselves against the cult of violence, whatever high name it may be given by any group, and understand clearly that neither the peasants nor the workers will benefit through bloodshed," Nehru advised. "It will mean their complete ruin."

Speaking of the international situation, the Prime Minister declared that the world was in the grip of a "war psychosis." He said that India, although not a strong nation, had used her efforts to promote peace.

ECONOMY DIET

Brass Faces Steak Dinner Bargain Loss

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—The 55-cent steak dinner which officers and civilians may buy at many military messes apparently is on the way out.

The Defense department, a spokesman said today, is making a survey of food costs preparatory to ordering price boosts sufficient to cover costs and operating expenses.

Enlisted men's messes are not involved—only what the services call "open" or "general" messes.

Open messes are operated at nearly all service installations. They have been operated under supervision of local commanding officers.

Officers now receive $47.88 a month for subsistence, out of which they are expected to pay for their meals.

The Pentagon said that in the Washington area the average cost of feeding officers and civilians has been running between $1.20 and $1.95 a day.

The meals served in this area range from 30-cent breakfasts including ham and eggs through 35-cent pork chop suppers to this, described as a typical dinner at the Anacostia Naval Receiving Station:

Grilled T-bone steak and gravy, baked potatoes, kale with bacon, corn on the cob, salad, cake, ice cream, hot rolls and butter, milk or iced tea. The cost: 55 cents.

GOP Names Utah Leader For Women

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—Mrs. Roy F. Priest of Mountiful, Utah, who was trained in political party work with the young Republicans, today was made director of women's division activities of the Republican National Committee by Arthur E. Summerfield, chairman.

In her post, which is titled Assistant in Charge of the Women's Division, Mrs. Prest succeeds Mrs. Gilford Mayes who has returned to her home in Kellogg, Idaho.

Chairman Summerfield said that Mrs. Priest's appointment evidenced the fact that the presidential candidate Dwight D. Eisenhower, the vice-presidential candidate, Senator Richard Nixon "and the entire Republican organization" realize "that women will play a greater role in this election than ever before."

"As a housewife, mother and experienced political worker, Mrs. Priest is going to set up an organization that will call for the maximum mobilization of the women of America," he said. "A one-time precinct worker, she knows organization work as well as any one in politics today."

SUES EX-WIFE, ATTORNEY

Illegally Held in Jail, War Veteran Charges

By DERICK DANIEL

A 34-year-old battle veteran Friday accused his titian-haired ex-wife and her attorney of "kangaroo court" tactics to have him illegally jailed on a peace warrant.

The charge was made in a suit filed in Fulton Superior Court by Charles L. Turner, 505 Harlan Dr., East Point, whose career includes a five-year Army hitch in the Pacific and, more recently, a six-month stint in Fulton Tower.

He contended also that this prison term was the result of trumped-up charges after a campaign by his wife to have him arrested.

Named defendants Friday in the suit for injunction were Mrs. Barbara T. Adams, 382 Peachtree Ave., N. E., Turner's former wife, and Attorney Clark Ray, 2269 Fairhaven Cir., N. E.

SCENTS KANGAROO COURT

Turner claimed that the defendants conspired Aug. 11 to get a peace warrant against him and that Ray is the justice of the peace who issued it and stands ready "as a kangaroo court" to judge him while representing Mrs. Adams.

The suit said "judge, jury and prosecutor" Ray put him in jail and that it's all a scheme to have him pay money he doesn't owe Ray and force him back to live in adultery with his ex-wife, who has resumed the name of her first husband.

In his petition, Turner alleged that, without his knowledge, his wife obtained a divorce while he was in jail last spring. When he was released, Turner said, she took him home to live in adultery. He said that at the time he was unaware she was no longer his wife.

DIVORCE A SURPRISE

The first he knew of the divorce, Turner contended, was when Ray called the day before issuing the peace warrant and said Turner had to pay $100 attorney's fee for his wife's divorce.

The next day, Turner said, he checked the records, found his wife had been granted a divorce. But he alleges there was no decree for him to pay attorney's fee.

Turner said he then refused to pay the lawyer and told Mrs. Adams he was leaving.

In his petition, Turner asked that Ray and the 39-year-old Mrs. Adams be enjoined from proceeding with the peace warrant, from making threats and from a campaign to keep him unemployed.

Judge Robert S. Wood ordered the defendants to appear Sept. 17 and show cause why the injunction should not be granted.

Marriage License Sales Drop 7 Pct.

Love is not blooming in Georgia this year.

The U. S. Department of Commerce, displaying a touching interest in romance, reported Friday that matrimony showed a .7 per cent decrease in Georgia during the last five months.

Marriage license sales were also down elsewhere in the Southeast and the nation with the exception of Tennessee and Mississippi, which showed slight increases.

The Department had no explanation.

manding an immediate statement outlawing germ warfare as well as atomic bombs.

"It may be true that there are no theoretically foolproof safeguards which would prevent the concoction of some deadly germs in an apothecary's shop in the dark hours of the night, Cohen said.

But bacteriological weapons to be effective in modern warfare, Cohen added, required industrial establishments, "facilities for maintaining the agents, transport containers and disseminating appliances." All that, he declared, could not escape detection under an effective system for international control.

The United States believed, said Cohen, that at an "appropriate" stage in the process of disclosing and checking military strength of the nations, agreed measures should become effective on the elimination of germ weapons. Those measures, he said, would provide "progressive curtailment of production, progressive dismantling of plants and progressive destruction of stockpiles of bacteriological weapons and related appliances." The end result, according to Cohen, would be complete elimination of germ weapons.

No Favors, Says Costello On Way to Cell

panied by another man and attorney Victor Feingold.

"I feel fine," he announced.

He entered the building wearing a perfectly tailored light blue pencil-striped business suit with white shirt and light blue figured tie which he will trade for another blue costume—prison denim.

One cameraman stumbled as he neared Costello, who reached out a hand and said:

"Look, don't break your neck."

The racket boss wiped perspiration from his face as he stepped into the bare Room 13. He was taken through the marshal's office to the courthouse detention pen and a tiled cell until a prison van took him to the Federal House of Detention.

A wealthy man who turned racketeers from mobsters into "businessmen," Costello ate his first lunch in jail—a cheese sandwich, salad, coffee and apple pie.

Instead of the delicacies he enjoyed at Manhattan's best restaurants and the daily tonsorial touching up he got at the Waldorf Astoria barbership, he now faced penitentiary fare and a prison haircut.

Where he'll be taken was not revealed. He will go to a federal prison, possibly at Danbury, Conn., or Lewisburg, Pa.

After six months, he will be eligible for parole.

would take steps to revoke his milk store license, Stewart said. Newsome then could take the matter into court by appealing the board's action.

Milk price fixing by the board was held unconstitutional by the Georgia Supreme Court last year. But the 1952 Legislature restored the pricing authority in a new act. The courts have not passed on the new law.

Newsome, president of the Georgia Retail Food Dealers Association, said he would ask the association at its state convention in Savannah Sunday to back him in his fight on milk-price fixing.

But he said:

"I'm going to get those people into court somehow."

Mrs. Nunnally, 36, shown at right with her attorney, Jake Ehrlich of San Francisco, is charged with having violated a Georgia court order which gave her custody of the children but ruled that she could not take them out of the state. She has them in California with her.

Fight for Adlai Goals, Truman, Murray Urge

America should be in the estimation of General Eisenhower."

The CIO president next cited a speech before the St. Andrews Society in New York in November, 1949.

"That's a Scottish society," Murray said with a trace of humor that reminded everybody he was of Scottish descent.

Eisenhower, he added, "manifested all the traits of a thrifty Scotsman when he made that speech." He quoted:

"We seek the illusion called security. We want to wear fine shirts and have caviar and champagne when we should be eating hot dogs and drinking beer."

"Now there is a political philosophy," said Murray caustically.

(In a statement at Denver Aug. 9, Eisenhower appeared to shift some of these visions by calling for extension of the social security program to cover an additional 14,000,000 persons and for increased old age assistance grants.)

Murray declared that he doubted "the average citizen can find any comfort or solace" in Eisenhower's candidacy.

"The CIO," he said, "can with perfect pride support the candidacies of Governor Stevenson and Senator Sparkman."

Koreans Told To Talk Peace At Conference

"Liberation Day," when all Koreans celebrate the anniversary of their liberation from Japan after the second world war, was found in some quarters to be temperate and encouraging.

Although warning that the North Korean armed forces had reached a strength fully capable of fighting a prolonged war, the premier seemed to place greater emphasis on the possibility of bringing the war to an end under circumstances that would show plainly the stalemated nature of the military campaign.

His remarks were seen by some to indicate a weariness among the North Koreans, and willingness to end it on terms that were merely not dishonorable.

Authorities here, however, found more significance in Kim Il Sung's failure to make any counterproposals on the prisoner issue. The State department's reminder that the United Nations would never return prisoners to face death or imprisonment appeared to leave the way of compromise open only to the North Koreans. No suggestion of such a compromise was discerned in the premier's statement.

Standard Code Proposed For School Bus Drivers

Fulton School Supt. Paul West proposed Friday that a stringent code of minimum standards be enacted by the Legislature for all school bus drivers in Georgia.

West suggested adoption of the rules set up by Fulton County Board of Education as the aftermath of a tragic bus-train collision last spring in which one girl was killed and 24 others were painfully injured.

Backing for such a move came immediately from Col. George W. Wilson, director of the Georgia department of public safety, who said he strongly favors statewide rules for the drivers.

STATEWIDE CONSIDERATION

Wilson indicated, however, he is not certain the Fulton regulations would be practical on an all-Georgia basis.

Fulton Rep. Hoke Smith, who is chairman of a Legislature committee studying highway safety, disclosed that a recommendation on school buses will be made at the next legislative session as part of an overall traffic report.

"Personally," Smith said, "I'm for statewide minimum standards for the bus drivers."

WORKING ON RULES

In explaining the county regulations adopted since the fatal May accident, West said:

"We have worked progressively each year to put more teeth in our rules. Those we have arrived at are the best and most stringent possible under school board regulations."

Drivers in Fulton County now must be under 41 and pass rigid mental and physical examinations. Last week's recommendation adopted by the Board of Education set hard and fast rules of operation where railroad crossings are involved.

3 Officers Indicted on Flog Charge

Vista, the county seat of Marion County. The indictment charges that the men took Davis to the county jail where they beat him.

A second count of the indictment charges that the same three officers arrested Margaret Miller Holloman, a Negro woman, and beat her. Both incidents happened on June 29, 1952, the indictment says.

The indictment charges the man and woman were beaten with a rubber hose and other weapons. Davis required hospitalization at Americus following the beating. The hospital said he was admitted at 9:30 p. m., June 29, and released the next morning.

In Atlanta, Col. George Wilson of the Department of Public Safety, which includes the State Patrol, expressed surprise that Jordan should be named in such an indictment. He said the patrol officer has a good record and "I don't see how he could be involved in anything like that."

However, Wilson announced that he is ordering an immediate investigation into the circumstances to determine "just what part our man played."

Jordan at Americus said he had no comment "whatsoever."

McCurdy has made an investigation, including a conference with State Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook, and as of Friday, McCurdy said Moye apparently is qualified to run.

Moye, an Atlanta lawyer and former Democrat, said he is making his first political race in the interest of developing a two-party system in Georgia.

"We cannot have a two-party system if the contests are confined to the presidential election," the candidate said. "The contests must be brought down to the local level, and the only way to do it is to have local races."

ference as it was announced that Eisenhower's first frankly political speech of the campaign would be made at Boise, Idaho Wednesday afternoon after a meeting with 10 Western Republican governors. Eisenhower will fly from Boise late Wednesday to Kansas City, Kan., for a regional conference of governors and leaders from seven Midwestern states.

Asked about the invitation to Eisenhower and Governor Stevenson, Democratic presidential nominee, to address the AFL convention in New York during the week of Sept. 15, Nixon said he felt strongly that Eisenhower should accept and that the only possible hitch was speech commitments made in advance.

Talmadge To Address Wardens

Governor Talmadge, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook and Georgia prison officials will address the annual convention of the Georgia Wardens Association at Radium Springs Monday.

Registration will begin at 5 p. m. Sunday. The Rev. Bill Allison, chaplain of Fulton County prisons, will lead a devotional period at 5:30 p. m. The executive committee will meet at 8 p. m.

L. F. Chapman, superintendent of Florida State Prison, will speak on the subject "Southern Prisons Are Different" Monday morning. Talks will be given Monday by Gloer Hailey, Fulton County commissioner; Attorney General Cook, Editor James Gray of the Albany Herald, J. B. Hatchett, assistant state director of corrections; Charles Pannell, member of the State Parole Board; the Rev. Mr. Allison on "The Preacher and Religion in the Penal System," and R. J. Carter of the State Board of Corrections.

Carl Mills, Fulton County warden and president of the association, will preside over a roundtable discussion during the afternoon.

Harrelson, father of four small children, was a member of the Atlanta police department several years. He resigned when Governor Talmadge was elected and became a member of the Georgia Bureau of Investigation and was assigned as the governor's chauffeur.

Investigating officers said the auto involved was not registered to anyone in the state government. Harrelson was alone, police said.

His death marked the 37th traffic fatality for the year in Atlanta, compared with 19 during a similar period last year.

car L. Chapman, who has been a key campaign planner in the administration of President Truman. Other members, including Stephen A. Mitchell, new Democratic National Committee chairman, were expected late tonight and early tomorrow for the two-day session.

Goldberg said he gained the definite feeling from more than an hour's conference that Stevenson was "interested in a decent, workable labor relations statute."

LABOR PLATFORM

He felt that the governor would stand "flatly" on the party platform, which calls for repeal of the Taft-Hartley labor law. Asked whether this was in conflict with the governor's statements that he favored amendments and revisions of the law, he said the governor had indicated "he stood with the platform declaration."

Another labor visitor, Joseph D. Keenan, head of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor, said the governor had reaffirmed to him that he was for repeal of the Taft-Hartley Labor Act and for the substitution of a law "satisfactory to both labor and management."

NOT A CAPTIVE

Goldberg contended the governor was not "a captive of any segment of the population" let alone of the CIO, and added: "We of the CIO wouldn't thing much of him if he were a captive of one segment." The CIO endorsed the governor yesterday.

Independents May Write In Votes for Ike

Georgians may vote an independent ticket for Ike by use of a gummed sticker on the "write-in" methods, but they will be voting an "independent" and not a Democratic ticket, Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook said Friday.

The Attorney General made his statement after he and Secretary of State Ben Fortson Jr. had received many requests for information as to whether gummed stickers could be used on the Georgia ballot in November.

"I have heard that there is a plan to prepare gummed stickers with the names of electors pledged to the Republican presidential nominee and distribute these over the state," Cook said. "Under the plan, dissatisfied Democrats would stick these elector-candidates under the Democratic column on the ballot and attempt to vote them as Democratic. This would be entirely illegal. The form of the ballot has been prepared by the governor, and it cannot be changed by the individual voter."

There is a place on the ballot for "write-in" candidates, the Attorney General pointed out. If a person wants to vote as an independent rather than as a Republican or a Democrat, he can 'write-in" or "stick in" the name of any presidential elector he desires, Cook said. In doing this, the voter would have to scratch the names of the elector-candidates on the Democratic and Republican slate.

Brother's Death in War Takes Teacher to Japan

By ANNE GOWEN

A lanky young man came home to College Park this week to tell his mother goodbye before he leaves for Okinawa to take a message of peace to the island battlefield where his older brother was killed more than seven years ago.

"You may think I'm being idealistic," said 21-year-old Charles Hilton Hambrick, "but I think the reason we have wars is that people have not followed Christian teachings."

Charles will leave for the Japanese island in late August or September to spend three years teaching English grammar and social science at the University of the Ryukyus. His work will be part of a Methodist "Asia-3" program which sends young men and women to work alongside missionaries in the Far East.

Charles' older brother David was preparing for the ministry when he decided to join the infantry. He was killed in heavy fighting after the U. S. beachhead had been established on Okinawa in 1945.

"After he was killed I began to wonder why he had to die and all the others on both sides had to die," Charles said. "One reason might be lack of Christianity in Japan and other parts of the world."

Charles was graduated from Vanderbilt University in June and spent the summer in intensive training for his new work. Besides teaching, he will lead religious programs among his students and in Protestant churches at Naha and Shuri on the China Sea, not far from the place his brother is buried.

Charles, who played football at College Park High School and won the Tennessee state high and low hurdles in track, hopes to coach his students in athletics in his spare time. "But my first responsibility is teaching," he said.

When he comes back to the states he will attend theology school at Emory.

Sunday he will speak before Sunday school classes at Vineville Methodist Church in Macon, which is sponsoring his work.

Homecoming

New Hope Methodist Church at Moreland Ave. and McDonough Blvd., S. E., will observe its annual homecoming day Sunday, according to the pastor, the Rev. W. D. Spence.

The Rev. A. L. Burgreen, who has been serving temporarily as vicar of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields Episcopal Church at Oglethorpe University, has accepted a call to become vicar of the church on a permanent basis.

Assumption Feast

The Feast of Our Lady of the Assumption, a service of obligation, will be held Sunday at the Catholic Cathedral of Christ the King. Masses will be held at 6, 7, 8 and 9 a. m. and 12:30 p. m.

Trinity Institute

The annual leadership institute of the Woman's Auxiliary of Holy Trinity Church will be held at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Workshops will be held in devotional planning, social relations, entertainment, church periodicals and the duties of officers in the group. The institute will open with celebration of Holy Communion after which the Rev. Harry Tisdale, pastor, will speak.

Council Meeting

Bishop Arthur J. Moore will preside at a meeting of the Methodist Southeastern Jurisdictional Council's executive committee here September 16.

The committee will plan a four-year program in evangelism, education, missions, church extension and promotion of special projects.

Southern Federal presents GROWING with ATLANTA AND GEORGIA
THE WARREN COMPANY . . a Notable Pioneer in Atlanta Industry

Out of this plant on Memorial Drive, signal contributions in the commercial refrigeration field have been introduced and patented; many of which are now in general use in the industry. The Army-Navy "E" flag flew over the building in World War II when THE WARREN COMPANY was engaged in the production of bombshells. Still serving our armed forces, the company is now manufacturing large numbers of 65-cubic foot refrigerators for the Army Quartermaster.

America is a great nation because of men of vision, industry and courage. Georgia's place in the industrial sun is the result of dedicated efforts of such outstanding men in our state. Such a man is the founder of THE WARREN COMPANY, Mr. Virgil P. Warren, president, chairman of the board and for two years president of the Commercial Refrigeration Manufacturer's Association.

Believing it is better to "build boys than to mend men," Mr. Warren has given more than a million dollars to the Boys Club in Atlanta as well as other philanthropic gifts.

Inventive, aggressive Virgil P. Warren began operations in 1882, initiating a pioneer industry. From the most humble beginning, the organization—the only one of its kind in the South, with the exception of a San Antonio firm—now employs 500 people in a 300,000 square foot enterprise that manufacturers "everything in the commercial refrigeration line!"

Don't Turn Back the Clock!

A few days ago when some of the county commissioners criticized the City of Atlanta for its administration of parks under the Plan of Improvement, there was a hint that a "small county police force" might be needed to replace the service provided by the city under contract.

That hint has now developed into a campaign.

However, at least one county official is standing by the Plan.

Commissioner Tom Camp says he has heard no complaints from county residents on the service of the city police. He is willing to give the Plan a chance to show its advantages.

We commend Mr. Camp on the position he has taken.

We strongly suspect that the "continuous talk of re-establishing the county police" stems from the courthouse, not from out in the country.

The Plan of Improvement has been in operation less than a year. Yet from its first day there have been persistent attempts to break it down and to defeat the purpose for which it was created. It is hard to consider these attempts as anything but a struggle for political power.

We had hoped in vain that the battle was over and that a new era of cooperation had dawned.

The purpose of the Plan of Improvement was never to increase the size of the City of Atlanta and to extend the scope of jurisdiction of the city government. Those results were incidental.

The primary objective was and is to provide a more efficient and economical government in an area where population growth has brought increasing duplication of service and conflict of jurisdiction.

Under the Plan, the county took over health services. The city in turn assumed the responsibility for parks and for police protection.

Thus the Fulton County taxpayers, most of whom also pay taxes in the city, were relieved of the burden of supporting two health departments, two sets of park administrators and two police forces.

The Fulton School Patrol can be worked out under the Plan.

If the police protection in the rural districts should lack in any respect—which we doubt—that situation, too, can be adjusted.

To turn back to the old way of duplication and confusion would be not only needless, it would be a crime against the taxpayer.

Georgia's Forest Fires Are Burning Shame

Between 1950 and 1951, there was a 21 per cent decrease in the number of forest fires in the United States while the acreage burned over dropped more than that, from 15,518,540 to 10,781,039.

That is fine. But the favorable report does not mean it is time to take off the back-pack pump, drop the fire rake and go fishing.

Not in Georgia, at least. Our state had a shameful record even in 1951—well over a million acres burned, second only to Florida in destructive forest fires.

How can we account for the loss?

Is it that we don't know how to protect our timber resources? Or is it that we don't value our woods and hence are careless with fire?

Let's say that the cause is largely the latter. States largely dependent on lumber as a crop learned long ago that everybody loses when timber burns. Oregon, for example, almost twice the area of Georgia, lost only one-tenth as much forest acreage by fire last year.

No, we can't lay away the fire-fighting equipment in Georgia on the basis that the nation over the number of fires has dropped.

Instead, we are only now on the way to adequate forest protection in our state. We have made only the beginning.

Peace Hopes Revived In Korean Conflict

We have held so long to the hope of a Korean truce that the sustaining strands of optimism are frayed and worn. However, there is again evidence that the people of North Korea are being prepared to accept a truce in the war.

Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier and commander in chief, has told his people that North Korea would be prepared to sign an armistice as a draw battle. He said that he was willing to sign an armistice which would make clear to the world that the "Americans are not the winners and the Koreans are not the losers in this war."

Actually, the Americans and the free peoples of the world did not go into this war with the intention of annihilation of North Korea or any other area. They entered it to demonstrate their willingness to resist aggression and their intention to stop Communist expansion through force of arms. In that they have demonstrated their ability and willingness to achieve these aims, the war already has been a victory for the United Nations. No armistice could hide that fact.

The war in Korea is a war to prevent a third world war. If it accomplishes that purpose through stopping Communist aggression, it has achieved its immediate purpose. If the American people wish a world-wide armed crusade to rid the world of the Communists, that decision still must be made.

Whether or not a truce is near, the Korean War was the showdown against Communist aggression and if there is an expansion of the war it will be of Communist design. We are immeasurably stronger for anything that comes than we were in 1950 at its beginning.

Right Not to Listen Is Also Inherent

Has your afternoon nap been broken by a roving sound truck blatantly heralding the arrival of the carnival at the city park? Have you experienced the difficulty of a sidewalk conversation in competition with the soapbox orator who leans on a public address system for support?

Has your town had trouble with the itinerant preacher who broadcasts "hell fire and damnation" in defiance of the city fathers and within an amplifier's throw of regular and decorous worship services?

If so, you are eligible for membership in the National Citizens' Committee Against Forced Listening. The NCCAFL would restrict such activities including the broadcasting of music, commercials and the like in common carriers, passenger stations and other public places.

The organization has the court on its side in New York, but the Supreme Court of the United States has said "it could not find in the Constitution any provision under which the infliction of forced listening upon captive audiences could be held to be unconstitutional."

Now the Committee Against Forced Listening has turned to Ike and Adlai and asked them to take a stand on this "totalitarian evil."

We don't know what position the candidates will take. It's a delicate question for a man who is about to take the stump himself.

We do know how we feel.

We are sure if the makers of the Constitution could have anticipated the problem of unrestricted audio amplification, they would have written the right to hear or not to hear into the Bill of Rights along with the guarantee of free speech.

The Answer Is Easily Anticipated

According to a Moscow journal, a Soviet is about to decode the hitherto undecipherable picture writing of the ancient Mayans, residents of Central America.

The Red scientist's revelations are forthcoming.

But the world needn't wait. We already know.

The evidence will point to the kinship of the Russians and the Mayans and the handwriting on the wall will translate: "Gromyko votes 'No!'"

Logical Explanation for Flying Saucers

Thomas L. Stokes

Ike Is in Keeping With the Times

WASHINGTON — You discover as you reach those big gates that open on the driveway leading to the White House executive offices that you've left that magic card—your pass—in the other suit. So you apologize and explain and are identified by one of the policemen who stand at the sacred portals of the grounds that are supposed to belong to the people of the United States—and once did. No great bother, of course.

It is a pretty card, with your name, your newspaper connection, and your photograph, done some years back when there was a bit of hair and not those fuzzy little stalks like scraggly cotton in a barren field.

Then, suddenly, it comes upon you as you count back. For 12 years, since shortly before we became involved in the Second World War of this century, you have had to carry this card. That long a time it has been in a strange new age when you're a thumbprint and color of eyes and hair, height and weight and live in a world of fear and suspicion and get admitted to the seat of democracy by a closely guarded card and not as a free citizen in your own right.

Your mind wanders back to other days, long ago, when you were assigned regularly as a newspaper staff reporter at the White House, to sit in the outer lobby, as newspaper staff reporters still do, and interview visitors who go in to see the President. Then, every day, the folks began to gather outside the executive offices soon after noon, folks from all over the country, tourists, and file through the lobby, some days as many as 2,000, and walk by the President in his office—it was Warren G. Harding then—and shake his hand. All the passport they needed was a note from their congressman—not a card thumbprint and color of eyes and hair, height, weight.

For now, in keeping with the times, a military man, a general, a professional soldier all his life, is trying to get to sit in that executive office and conduct the affairs of our great democracy and thus succeed the civilian and practical man of politics and public affairs who is there now.

His candidacy itself bespeaks the frustration of these times, which provokes us to look for a hero who somehow will deliver us from all our fears, though he himself, in his military character, symbolizes all of them most exactly. Nor is he experienced in politics and the management of political affairs.

There has not been a professional soldier governing us from the White House in this century.

But now we seem to have a different attitude. We cling to the card with thumbprint and color of eyes and hair, height and weight, and accept ourselves as items in a huge filing system somewhere. It's a small thing, perhaps, but possibly something about which we should concern ourselves.

Centralization Is Admitted Danger

Centralization of government, a phrase certain to be heard three or four more times during the presidential campaign, poses considerable problems when one attempts to label the parts arising in Washington and twining into the lives of each of us. That concentration of rule is to be a major issue is without doubt. The Eisenhower forces have made known their opposition, and just the other day Governor Stevenson said the states should assert themselves and provide for their peoples those services the people call for, thereby taking away some of the powerful magnetism which turns the hands of the land to Washington.

There is a large amount of virtue in the governor's urging, but there also is a problem of considerable magnitude inherent in execution of his summons. The size of the problem is in a manner dependent upon the wealth of the individual states. Consider Georgia.

At the present time the state is making the most avid effort in its history to provide for the needs of its people. More money is being spent on schools, highways, and health than ever before. The school program principally is a Georgia effort. Though there is some federal aid for areas where defense emergencies have accentuated the building need, most of Georgia's school construction is being accomplished by the state's own financial hands.

Such is not the case in the instances of highways and health. The Federal Government has put from 20 to 33 per cent into construction of Hill-Burton hospitals and has supplied matching funds for the building of roads. Georgia is not a wealthy state; taking over of these services on a "made-in-Georgia" basis would be a difficult task indeed.

The Federal Government provides a big share of the state's welfare money, and the program is most popular among the recipients. The state also has thousands of government workers. It is presumed they are not foes of "centralization."

The social and economic force of the government is everywhere among us. It pays salaries and hands out relief. It provides education, sanitation, health, insurance, and advice. It supports farm prices and home loans, forecasts the weather, and dams rivers. It brings rural electricity and rural telephones, and it subsidizes the air mail. It regulates the currency, forecasts market conditions, pays for farmland conservation, and drops little fishes into lakes. Stick your head out of the window anywhere in this great land, and you see the government.

Centralization of government, growing and growing, cannot be a good thing. Too many nations have fallen of the disease. But taking the structure apart—saving that which is good, and necessary, and right—will require the services of one endowed with the wisdom of a battalion of Solomons.

And another thing about overcentralization: it's above the means of the average pocketbook.

There Are Many Joys in Farm Living, But It Has Its Many Headaches, Too

Alpharetta—We ask Celestine Sibley to take a bow!

Believing Miss Sibley typifies the understanding between urban and rural women, we were justified in our belief by her column of August 8, "Farmers' Fight Is Our Fight."

We farm people are tightening our belts, working a bit harder, hoping a bit more that our friends in the city are not too far away to recognize our problems and have not forgotten that there are many joys in farming as well as many headaches.

We do not desire to make things tough for our city friends—the high cost of living hurts us, too. Machinery, equipment, feed, health and sanitation for flocks and herds, seed, fertilizer and insecticides are a costly and necessary part of daily life on the farm.

While city folks have been hot and uncomfortable, we've been the same. Faced with what seemed stark crop failure, we also have the same problem of feeding and clothing the family that urban people have. Weather, hot or cold, wet or dry, means more to us than our physical comfort.

We have met problems before and have not "idly wondered" why we stuck, but stuck just the same. We do, however, appreciate understanding hearts.

I hope that too many of us do not have to apply for disaster loans that have to be paid back to the government, in spite of the misconception of a lot of people who think the loans are a gift to the farmer. Farmers have a proud record of paying their debts.

Director, Associated Women, GFBF.

Race Issue Has No Place In Political Campaigns

Buchanan—In the August 13th issue of The Constitution, I read of a move by the nonpartisan Georgia League of Women Voters to bar the race issue from politics. They call on the people of our state to endorse the following statement: "We call on political leaders and candidates for public office in the state of Georgia to see that our political campaigns are free from appeals to racial or religious prejudice. . . . We respectfully urge the newspaper editors and publishers of Georgia to decline any political advertisement which makes such an appeal to intolerance. . . . And further, we ask the managers of radio and television stations of Georgia to do everything in their power to discourage any violation of the basic principles of this state and this nation."

This would be a wonderful forward step in Georgia politics and I firmly believe that every Christian should do his best to further the endorsement of this statement.

Ever since the reconstruction days when carpetbaggers capitalized on the race issue to get political office to enable them to fill their pockets by graft, there have been carpetbaggers of a type, local scalawags, if you please, who have brought out the race issue every time they thought they could not win office on their past record or capabilities. I say if a man has to shout "Nigger" to get elected he doesn't have the decency to be entrusted with an office of the people.

May we wholeheartedly endorse this move for cleaner, more Christian government.

Pastor, Buchanan Methodist Church.

'Propaganda Such As This Is Unfair to the Unthinking'

Atlanta—One of the great national associations in their propaganda department sends out material such as the following:

"Worth Repeating!

"Have a mortgage on your house?

"If you are like millions of others you will be paying off your mortgage over a period of 15 to 25 years. But—did you know—the average family of four could pay for a $10,000 home in a little over three years with the money they now pay in taxes?"

A statement such as that is more than misleading because the taxes are not uniform. We can't eradicate taxes, and to infer that we can, is more or less bordering on treason to the country as a whole.

Propaganda such as this is unfair to the unthinking. After all, it is our government and it is fellow-Americans who are the heads of our government and we have had this and must continue to have it. By and large, the record of the average American employee of the government or elsewhere is the highest standard in the world, and such letters are a reflection upon the employees of the government as well as a reflection upon the citizens. There is, of course, some waste as there is waste in every household and every business but, by and large, considering all circumstances, the standard is high.

This does not condone wrong-doing which should be weeded out but to create misinformation such as this, to have us lose faith in this wonderful government of ours is not good for "we the people."

Southern Voters Rejecting Those Who Compromised?

Norman Park—It has been the saying for years that a Southern man would vote for the devil if he were running on the Democratic ticket and it seems as though—judging by the surrender (they call it compromising) of some of our Southern leaders—the old saying still holds good.

Well, the real Democrats of Tennessee threw Governor Browning overboard; Governor McMath of Arkansas got tossed into the discards; other compromisers were defeated for the Senate and some House jobs changed hands.

Of all people, Governor Talmadge, Dick Russell, Walter George, of Georgia; old rock-ribbed James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, and even staunch old Gov. Hugh White of Mississippi all tucked their hats under their arms and said, "Me, too, Harry. We'll swallow your Man Friday, platform and all—hook, line, and sinker."

There have been times when we had some fighting men in Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee, and "Ole Miss." Guess "them days are gone forever." Louisiana hasn't had a real fighter since Huey passed on. Florida has too strong a flavor of Pepper to ever amount to anything.

It remains to be seen how many suckers the boys can fool into supporting Harry's civil rights business. J. N. FOREMAN.

Now Is the Time to Start Attack on Winter Smog

Atlanta—This letter may sound a little premature, but now is the time to do something about the annual fall and winter annoyance of smog caused by home and apartment owners using the wrong kind of coal in their furnaces. One house belching forth that heavy, black, smothering smoke can make life almost unbearable for all the people living within two or three blocks.

Isn't there some kind of city ordinance that can force people to use the kind of coal that causes very little smoke? If there is not—there should be. Let's have laws that fit the times. And let's enforce them!

OPS Rules Prices Know No Thirst

OPS officials, apparently for lack of anything better to do, have issued an amazing ruling.

They have decided that the price of mint juleps may be raised at the Kentucky Derby, the Cheyenne frontier celebration and few other special occasions—on condition the prices revert to normal ceilings after the celebrations are over.

This is one of the few times a government agency ever has openly endorsed price-gouging.

House Divided Cannot Stand

I have been talking about the inner conflicts of man which are one cause of man's deep sense of guilt. A man came to me in a very unhappy state. I asked his trouble and he said, "I have gotten off the track." What did he mean by that? He felt a pull toward the higher life and his conscience demanded that he move in that direction.

Some feelings of guilt come not from any conscious wrongdoing, but rather because of failure to "fight the good fight." St. Paul says, "For we have all sinned, and come short of the glory of God." (Romans 3:23.) As long as man is what he is, a creature in the image of God, then he can never be satisfied "short of the glory of God."

The answer for those torn inside by higher and lower impulses is not so much repentance and forgiveness which I will later discuss in connection with another type of guilt, but rather is the answer inner unity through consecration. Put two horses in a pasture and each will go his own way by himself. But hitch those same two horses to a load to pull and they walk shoulder to shoulder without conflict.

So with the inner natures of man. Having no great life consecration, man becomes disunited and at war with himself. But when he finds something to which he can completely give himself, his inner conflicts are resolved.

At 45, Lincoln was a disappointed failure. In Robert Sherwood's play Lincoln says, "You talk about civil war—there seems to be one going on inside me all the time . . . it says in the Bible that a house divided against itself cannot stand, so I reckon there's not much hope. One of these days I'll just split asunder, and part company with myself."

But Lincoln did not "split asunder." Instead, he found a great cause to which he gave himself completely and in so doing he became organized and unified. The inscription on the statue of Robert E. Lee in the Hall of Fame reads: "Duty then is the sublimest word in our language. Do your duty in all things. You cannot do more. You should never do less."

St. Paul looks inside himself and cries, "O wretched man that I am." (Romans 7:24.) Then he looks outward and upward and said, "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4:13.) And finally he triumphantly declares, "I have fought a good fight." (2 Tim. 4:7.)

Down in the hogpen the prodigal son was saved when he saw himself as a son with a father and a home and gave himself to that higher vision.

"He that loseth his life for my sake," said Jesus. That is, when you quit fighting with yourself and become inwardly organized through consecration to Him who is the greatest, then do you find life. No man can serve God and mammon. And no person is happy until he answers the prophet of old, "Choose ye this day whom you will serve."

The Car That Laughed at Hills

"The price of the car includes front license and taillight bracket with spare tire carrier, electric horn, robe rail, antiskid rear tires, foot accelerator and a full set of tools. . . . The clutch runs in a bath of oil. This makes it remarkably smooth and velvety in engagement, and eliminates 80 per cent of the noise when the gears are shifted. . . . The one-man real mohair top can be raised and lowered in an instant by one person. There are no top bows near the driver's seat. This gives the driver . . . an unobstructed view of both sides of the car. . . . The powerful motor is one of the most marvelous pieces of machinery ever invented."

The youthful won't recognize the text. Jack Benny would.

The quotes are from advertisements of the 1916 Maxwell dusted off and reprinted by Bob Griggs in The Douglas County Sentinel.

There were no extras to buy and the car sold in Douglas County at $655, f. o. b., Detroit.

"The Car That Laughs at Hills," the ad said. Sometimes those oldtimers "laughed" so hard they burst a block. Reading the advertisers' copy today is good for a chuckle at least.

The salesman didn't open his book, just took a hasty departure.

BARNUM NOT ONLY was right, he was an editor.

Milton Fleetwood of Cartersville dug up that information while browsing in the library of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

Phineas T. Barnum became an editor and publisher at the age of 21. His paper was The Herald of Freedom at Bethel, Conn. Calling a spade not just a spade, but a "damned old shovel," he managed to get into much litigation, the cost of which put The Herald of Freedom to the wall before the end of its third year.

A Night With Louis XIV

CHICAGO, Aug. 15—It was one of those sprawling affairs. People from Oregon were rubbing noses with people from Maryland, and athletic directors from Arizona were cutting up old touches with neighbors from Texas. And the Chicago locals were looking a little bored with it all. It's always that way when it's in your own hometown, and you've got to go out and face your desk again tomorrow morning.

The Chicago Tribune had hired a hall for the night and invited all the visiting firemen in to eat and drink on the management. Name of the place was the Louis XIV Room of the Sherman Hotel, a rather highly concentrated version of a city itself at the corner of Clark and Randolph Sts. Only Louie would never have recognized his room, what they'd done to it and the people who populated it in the name of the College All-Stars-Los Angeles Rams football game.

Bisher

There were celebrated citizens at the rate of four per square foot, though the hall was big enough for basketball, provided the points were shaved closely enough. Fifteen years ago I'd have given my right arm to mix and mingle with them. This time I was mixing and mingling and giving my right arm against my will. The celebrated citizens only added to the heat—outside it was 92 degrees—and the traffic jams at the food and beverage boards.

But it was interesting. You could stand still, with a little effort, and within 10 minutes see practically every name that means a thing in college or professional football wrestle by, mixing and mingling.

There was nothing more touching, however, than the impassioned reunion of Harvey (Aunt Fanny) Hester and J. Hampton Pool. Harvey needs no further introduction to Atlantans who eat out occasionally, but J. Hampton is not widely known on the premises.

—The Seahawks Never Dried Out

The Mr. Pool was an end at Stanford who transferred his educated hands to the Chicago Bears and there performed professionally during many seasons in which the Bears were no less than incomparable. After he'd served in sterling manner as a naval officer in the war, J. Hampton had the misfortune to align his muscles with the Miami Seahawks in 1946. The even more unfortunate Harvey was attempting to meet the pay roll of this yearling member of the All-America Conference that year, and failing. Nobody in Miami was buying tickets.

Neither was debating the issue. Pool and Hester were of the sentiment that it was an experience all hands who went down with that ship would never forget. Suffice it to say that Mr. Hester lost not only his shirt, but also a sparkling array of underwear and assorted haberdashery in the misadventure.

"They think it rains in Borneo," J. Hampton was saying. "They never saw rain like we had it in Miami. We didn't have a bad team, only the guys never did have a chance to see what they could do in dry uniforms."

This was, as I get it, the first team in history that ever attempted to play a season under water.

"Yeah," said Harvey, beseechingly, "we had a chance with any team in the league, except the Cleveland Browns, didn't we Hamp?"

"Well . . ."

"See," said the Hester, "I told you so. A good team, especially after Hamp took over. This guy's one of the greatest coaches in America today."

This time Pool's got the record with him. He's first chief assistant to Joe Stydahar, the mountain from West Virginia, who coaches the champion Rams. In 1946, Pool had nothing going for him. He took over the Seahawks after they had driven Jack Meagher into private business and the team never won but three times all year.

"But we could have played with anybody but the Browns, eh, Hamp?" The Hester was still insisting he'd had something to show for his $100,000, more or less.

—Joel Hunt, Who Can't Forget Athens

Further removed from the mob, in a quieter corner of the premises, was a tragedy of another nature. Joel Hunt has come up from Teague, Texas, for the occasion. As a selling representative for Wilson Sporting Goods the trip was business.

Joel Hunt is a name that travels from one end of the scale to the other in the South-Southwest. At Texas A & M they say he was the greatest athlete Dana Bible ever coached. He played a professional baseball string that carried him as high as the St. Louis Cards.

But as a football coach his grave is in Athens, Ga. It was in the season between Harry Mehre and Wallace Butts, and just offhand it seems to have been the very worst Georgia ever knew.

He'd been hired off the Louisiana State staff, and he's still living the horrible year and suffering from it and saying so.

"There were so many things," he said, mentally wringing his hands, "so many things. There were so many people who didn't understand me, and what I was trying to do. There were so many different factions. I never did get to belong. But I have no bitterness in my heart for Georgia. It was a bad experience for all of us."

He still looked the athlete, leathery outdoorsy complexion and lean as a cowpoke. But there was a certain tragic air about him. There always is about the great athlete who has never been able to quit playing at the game past his years.

Waterfield Field Goal Wins After Collegians Score Early

By FURMAN BISHER
Constitution Sports Editor

SOLDIERS FIELD, Chicago, Aug. 15—On a rainy Friday night in Chicago, the 1952 class of College All-Stars raised an umbrella pass defense that held for three quarters against the best in the professional football industry.

In the fourth, though, the Los Angeles Rams found a way, scored one touchdown and a field goal for a 10-7 victory over the team coached by Bobby Dodd of Georgia Tech in the 19th annual game in this charity series.

Through a series of rain spasms that set in just at game time, a crowd of 88,316 sat and watched the Collegians put up a surprisingly stubborn fight against the champions of the National Football League.

For a fact, the campus kids greatly embarrassed the professionals through the first half. Largely it was the work of Babe Parilli of Kentucky, Vic Janowicz of Ohio State and the personnel in the defensive backfield set up by Coach Red Sanders of UCLA, one of Dodd's aides. This included Bobby Dillon of Texas, Burl Toler and Ollie Matson of San Francisco, Les Richter of California, Frank Gifford of Southern Cal and Jim Dooley of Miami.

Parilli, hot and cold this slippery evening, promoted the score that put the All-Stars on top, 7-0, with 6:45 minutes left in the second quarter. Janowicz did all the scoring, hauling a smartly-faked Parilli handoff three yards for a touchdown, then booting the extra point.

But it was the defensive secondary that offered the supreme performance of the College boys' night out. For the first half they allowed Bob Waterfield and Norm Van Brocklin, the great throwing aces of the Rams, only six completions in 19 attempts. Except for a resurgence immediately after the All-Stars' score, they never allowed the pros within danger territory.

When they did arrive that time, Matson was there to meet Elroy Hirsch, leading pass receiver of the National League last season as he set a yardage record, and bat down a fourth down pass in the end zone.

The third quarter was wearing away when the pros finally got their offensive feet on the ground. Even then they required special assistance from a pass interference ruling that cost the Collegians 30 yards and set the Rams up in business on the All-Stars' six-yard line.

The drive covered 77 yards, including five plays in the third quarter and paid off after 1:14 of the fourth. The climaxing play was a three-yard pass from Van Brocklin to Tank Younger, who flopped into the end zone under Matson's hands.

Waterfield kicked the extra point that tied the game, then came back less than five minutes later, after Van Brocklin had maneuvered the pros into position at the All-Stars' 24-yard line, and kicked the conclusive field goal from the 31.

There would have been no doubt about it. Parilli would have been the outstanding player of the night had he not fumbled away the ball three times and thrown two interceptions. As it was the Kentucky graduate won his cheers for a talent he did not employ often in college. He gained more vital yards running than passing, 40 of them on the longest All-Star ground play of the night as they moved into scoring position on their seven-point drive.

In the third quarter, Parilli hit Hugh McElhenny of Washington on a pass play that carried 60 yards, the longest gain of the night. Sideback Woodley Lewis of the Rams caught McElhenny from behind at the seven, or the All-Stars might have been on top by two before the pros got their dauber up.

As was, probably the outstanding player of the game was California All-American Les Richter. As a linebacker and a floating member of the secondary, Richter was the most vital member of the defensive group that held off the Rams so long.

There was a certain amount of gloom inthe Stars' dressing room until the genial Dodd arrived.

"I never saw a group of tougher football players in my life," the Georgia Tech coach told his squad. "There'll be no gloom around here. You fellows played a great game and I'm proud of you."

Of his own men, Lum Snyder at tackle and Ray Beck at guard saw extensive action, Beck the outstanding of the two. Darrell Crawford was in briefly at quarterback. Big Marion Campbell, Georgia's tackle contribution to the group, was a stickout on defense.

The Stars roared from kickoff into action as if the evening belonged to them. They owned three first downs before the Rams got their first, which came after the opening period was two-thirds gone. They wound up with 13 to the pros' 18, 138 rushing yards to pros' 107, and 107 passing yards to the pros' 170. In the end, the Rams hit on only 15 of 37 throwing attempts, one of those, and 30 yards coming on the defense call.

The Rams got the first major break of the game when Bert Rechichar returned a short Waterfield field goal attempt to his own 25 and fumbled. The alert Waterfield recovered. Rechichar's nose was broken, but the Rams couldn't make a dent on the amateurs.

Grifford stole a Van Brocklin pass at his own three and hauled it out to the 31 to set up the All-Stars' scoring thrust in the second quarter. Parilli threw to John Thomas of Oregon State for a first down at their 41 and the All-Stars were on the move.

Parilli ran for nine, then took out on his lovely 40-yard trip to the Rams' 12. He passed to Bob Carey of Michigan State to the three, and here Janowicz took over.

After the 60-yard act with McElhenny carrying to the secen, the hot-and-cold Parilli fumbled the ball away to the Rams on the next play. The rest of the third quarter developed into a passing match in which neither team could claim an edge until the Rams started moving in the closing stages.

Punctuated by dandy footwork of a rookie named Volney Quinlan of San Diego State, Van Brocklin's air game had carried to the All-Stars' 37 when interference was ruled against Matson as he covered Quinlan at the Collegians' six. Three plays later Van Brocklin threw to Younger for the score. The next time the Rams got their hands on the ball they drove back for the field goal, though it seemed when Bob Toneff of Notre Dame threw Van Brocklin back at the Stars' 38 they were done.

Waycross Gets Braves Farms Deal

WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 15—(AP)—Eight clubs of the Boston Braves' baseball farm system are to train in Waycross next year.

Under terms of an agreement signed Friday between representatives of the National League club and the Waycross and Ware County Chamber of Commerce, about 250 to 300 players will train here for eight-week periods during the Spring for the next five years.

Clubs slated to get in shape here will be Quebec, Can.; Hartford, Conn.; Evansville, Ind.; Eau Claire, Wis.; Appleton, Wis.; Danville, Ill.; Hagerstown, Md. and Harlan, Ky.

The former air force base just outside Waycross city limits will be the training site. Using funds provided by the Waycross Industrial Committee, city and county construction forces will prepare four baseball diamonds and a batting practice field and will renovate ten buildings for quarters.

The Braves are to pay $2,000 a year rent for five years and presence of the camp is expected to result in the spending of $150,000 to $200,000 here each Spring.

Memphis-Hexed Crackers Relinquish Southern Lead

Chicks Edge 'Cousins,' 4-3, Vault Into First Division

By JESSE OUTLAR

Luke Appling is one of Atlanta's favorite sons, but folks around here are happy that Old Aches and Pains is leaving town. In fact, he stayed just one day too long.

Friday night, at Ponce de Leon, Appling's Memphis Chicks licked their Cracker cousins, 4-3, and kicked them out of first place. And in so doing the Chicks vaulted into the Southern's first division society themselves.

It was appropriate that Memphis should use Atlanta as a springboard in its leap among the elite. For the Crackers were the most co-operative club in the Chicks' long climb from the cellar to the upper bracket.

Friday's success gave Memphis 14 triumphs in its last 17 outings with Atlanta, nine of 11 at Poncey, and a 15-7 edge for the season. So it's no wonder that Ladies Night crowd of 3,998—only 1,592 paid—and other Cracker supporters are elated over the Chicks' departure.

Now trailing Chattanooga by a half game, the Crackers open a vital five-game series with a double-header against the Lookouts here Saturday. Memphis, with a game edge over fifth-place Mobile and in the top four for the first time since April 17, goes to New Orleans.

Friday's victory, which gave Memphis the series, 3-1, was achieved on six hits and two costly Cracker errors.

Hard-luck Art Fowler, shooting for his 13th win, was blotted with his ninth setback, despite creditable hurling. He was nicked for six safeties, before being lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. An error by Vern Petty started a two-run Chick spurt, which supplied the deciding margin, in the top half of that frame.

Jim Suchecki was thumped for all seven Atlanta hits, and he wasn't around to see his 12th win posted at the end. For the third straight night, however, Appling got nifty relief hurling. This time, Dixie Howell rushed in from the bull pen and extinguished what looked like a lively rally in the eighth.

Fowler and Suchecki wrestled through the first three heats in scoreless style. Then, in the fourth, pesky Don Nicholas, who stole his 73rd base, in the ninth, started the Chicks on the winning track.

Nicholas led the inning with what seemed a harmless walk, since Fowler hadn't surrendered a hit. But, in an effort to keep Don glued to the bag, Fowler threw wildly to first and the wing-footed fly-chaser buzzed all the way to third.

He waited at the hot corner as Sam Meeks was retired and was still there after Dixie Upright walked. But Floyd Fogg singled him home, and Ed McGhee did the same for Upright. Ed was cut down at second trying for a double.

In the home half of the fourth, Dick Sinovic lined his 16th homer, over the left-field shrubbery. The solo blow gave Sinovic 100 RBI's for the season and cut the deficit in half.

There was no further scoring, until the seventh, when Memphis wrapped up the decision with two markers.

Al Kozar, first up, lived on Petty's error, a low throw. Don Griffin forced Al, but Suchecki drew a walk and Nicholas followed with a run-producing double. Suchecki took third on the hit, whence he counted on Meeks' fly to John Rucker.

Trailing, 4-1, the Crackers moved back into contention with singletons in the seventh and eighth. The seventh-inning score was accomplished without benefit of a hit. Suchecki passed the first two batters—Harry Hanebrink and Petty—and two infield outs later Hanebrink touched home.

With Chattanooga's victory over Mobile on the scoreboard, the Crackers knew in the eighth that they were on their way out of first place.

It looked as if they might do something about it, when Rucker opened with a double and Parks singled him home with one out. At that juncture, Appling waved in Ross Grimsley to face the southpaw-swinging Chuck Tanner.

Grimsley responded by whiffing Tanner, but handed Hanebrink a walk. Then he took one himself, and Howell was hailed.

Fogg gave Howell an assist by spearing Petty's liner, and Dixie disposed of the Crackers in a routine manner in the ninth.

Manager Dixie Walker has named Jack Brittin (10-4) and Howie Anderson (8-5) to face the Lookouts in Saturday's doublebill. Jim Pearce (8-5) and southpaw Frank Papish (0-0) are the probable Lookout choices.

LUKE APPLING AND HIS MEMPHIS CHICKS REALLY GO FOR THOSE CRACKERS

'EVERYBODY LOVES HIM'

Easy-Going Dykes May Be Pilot of the Year

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(INS)—If he isn't careful, the most free-and-easy-going manager in the major leagues is likely to be named manager of the year.

Jimmy Dykes

That hombre, of course, is the dumpy little man with the big black cigar—Jimmy Dykes of the Athletics.

If that happy selection should be made, the cheering will be loud and long from all hands—fans, players and press. For Jimmy is about as popular a baseball figure as the game ever had.

Everybody loves him—even the umpires—although he has given them many a bad time both as player and manager. But they, like rival ball clubs, realize there is nothing mean or vicious in Jimmy's ribbing.

The only possible dissenting voice we might hear raised in protest—although we doubt even that one—would be the voice of Joe McCarthy, former manager of the Yanks.

Joe certainly ranks as one of the great managers of all time, but his record failed to impress irrepressible Jimmy, who once remarked: "Joe's just a push-button manager. When he needs a new star all he has to do is press a button and Ed Barrow sends him one."

That crack never did sit well with the serious McCarthy.

But Jimmy never took either himself or anybody else too seriously.

Still, he is serious enough about winning ball games. Although to watch the free and easy way he goes about winning them might lead a stranger to think he wasn't particularly interested.

Years ago we heard an owner—one of baseball's stuffiest stuffed shirst—remark that Jimmy was not severe enough with his players and that he also was too friendly with them.

Well, it is true that Jimmy is on fine terms with his players but it also is true that he has the hustlingest club in either major league.

The Athletics are giving them all they have and their hustle and spirit is reflected in the standings.

If you flip back to the pre-season pennant race predictions you will find that all the "experts" picked Jimmy's Athletics to finish no better than a poor seventh and many of them put the A's down in the cellar.

Those predictions may have been justified on paper but you may have noted that very few games are won on paper.

Jimmy didn't believe the forecasts and he soon had his players disbelieving them and trying to prove them false.

The results are written in the records for all to see. The aroused A's have been in the race all the way, and if their little wonder, Bobby Shantz, stands up, they might land in the first division.

Jimmy will go a step further. He'll tell you nonchalantly they might even win the pennant. If that miracle should come to pass Jimmy and this writer will celebrate in style.

Shantz Drops Nats for 21st

Athletics Score Six in 5th; Jensen, Wood Slap Homers

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 15—(AP)—Bobby Shantz, the major leagues' leading hurler, gained his 21st victory of the season Friday night surviving a five-run Washington flareup in the third inning as the Philadelphia Atheltics countered with six runs in the fifth to whip the Senators, 11-7.

21 FOR LITTLE BOB

Shantz Keeps Moving

Jackie Jensen and Ken Wood hit two-run homers for the losers in the third, while Eddie Yost clouted a round-tripper in the ninth.

For Shantz, who has dropped only four decisions this year, it also marked his fourth win over Washington and his 23rd complete mound chore in 25 starts.

After Philadelphia had given him a three run lead in the first two frames, Washington pounced on Shantz for five tallies in the third as Jensen homered after Yost singled. Wood poled his homer after Pete Runnels walked. A fifth marker resulted from successive doubles by Mel Hoderlein and Clyde Kluttz.

Behind by 3, the A's opened the big round with a double and a single to make it a 5-5 game and start the winning rally.

Simpson's Triple Wins For Tribe

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15 (AP)—Harry Simpson tripled in the twelfth inning tonight to give the Cleveland Indians a 7-6 victory over the St. Louis Browns and edge the Tribe to within two games of the first place New York Yankees.

Simpson's single brought in shortstop Ray Boone who had singled.

After trailing, 6-2, the Tribe closed the gap to 6-5 in the fifth on Luke Easter's three-run homer and tied it in the eighth.

The Browns got off to a running start with three runs on four hits and two walks. They pushed over two more runs in the third and added another in the fifth.

Cleveland picked up its other two runs in the fourth.

BOUNDARIES ON BARRIER TO GOOD GOLF IN AMERICAS CUP AT SEATTLE

Venturi-Fired U. S. Wins Americas Cup

Stranahan, Ward, Urzetta, Coe Are Surprise Losers

SEATTLE, Aug. 15—(AP)—The United States amateur golf team squeezed out victory in the first international matches for the Americas Cup Friday, although three of its top men failed to come through.

Sparked by the starp shooting of 21-year-old Ken Venturi of San Francisco and a couple of easy victories by Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., the U. S. team collected 12 points to Canada's 10 in the two-day competition. Mexico was a badly beaten last, scoring only five points.

Although the U. S. team clinched the trophy at a comparatively early stage in Friday's proceedings, it was the surprising performances of Canada's top players that provided most of the excitement in the singles matches.

First, Frank Stranahan, the Toledo muscleman, went down before the Canadian champion, Walter McElroy, then Nick Weslock beat former amateur champion Charlie Coe, of Oklahoma City, and Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., outlasted the current British Amateur titleholder, Harvie Ward, of Tarboro, N. C., in a 38-hole struggle.

Then, to cap the day's belated surprises, Mexico's veteran Percy Clifford, five times amateur champion of that nation, turned back Sammy Urzetta, U. S. titleholder two years ago, 2 and 1.

Within the space of about an hour, four of the best amateurs in the United States went down in defeat and what had looked like a walkover was turned into a close contest.

The U. S. had taken the lead Thursday, scoring four points to Canada's three and Mexico's two in the six-some play.

In Friday's singles, the United States fattened its score on the comparatively weak Mexican team and the lower half of the Canadian order.

Mexico won only one singles match out of six against the United States and two against Canada. And the last three Canadians, Phil Farley, Percy Clogg and Pete Kelly, couldn't offer much competition to Campbell, the U. S. alternate, Venturi and Urzetta.

Until Kesselring came along to win the only extra-hole match of the singles, Venturi's splendid performance was the big news of the day. The San Francisco youngster fired a one-under-par 70 on the morning round over the 6,632-yard Seattle Golf Club course and followed with another 35 on the front nine this afternoon to end his day's work on the 27th green.

UPSET VICTORS IN CITY AMATEUR TOURNEY

Charles Harrison (L), Bobby Tutwiler Surprised Favorites

Miller, Sulzer Fall in City Golf As Hay, Harrison Gain Semifinals

By BERT PRATHER

Defending Champion Pierce Miller and big Bob Sulzer, upsetter of favorite Gene Dalhbender Thursday, were shoved to the sidelines as play in the annual City Amateur Golf Tournament moved into the semi-finals Friday afternoon at East Lake No. 1.

Miller fell victim of Bobby Tutwiler's red hot putter on the back side and bowed out, 4 and 3.

Sulzer was ousted by young Charles Harrison, 5 and 4.

Eighteen-year-old Dick Edwards and 19-year-old Gene Hay gained the other semi-final berths. Edwards downed Buddy Smith, 4 and 3, and will meet Tutwiler at 2 p. m. Saturday. Hay disposed of Red Collins, 3 and 1, to move into the slot opposite Harrison.

The Harrison-Sulzer match was Harrison's all the way. The former East Lake club champion who is home on leave from Fort Bliss grabbed the first hole with a birdie three and never trailed. He took the par four fourth with a three and the long ninth with a birdie four to turn Sulzer, the 1950 City Champion, three up.

Harrison continued the pressure on the back side taking 10 with a birdie three, 12 with a birdie three and then closing out the match at 14 by conceding Sulzer a half on the hole which he could rightfully have won.

Harrison's torrid pace placed him four under when the match ended on 14.

Tutwiler's back side against Miller was just as impressive. After turning all square, he took 10 from Miller with a par 4, then birdied 11 and 12, took 13 with a par, dropped 14 with a bogey and closed out the match with a fine eagle three on 15.

Another hot round was Gene Dahlbender's five-under-66 in disposing of Al Hayes in the championship consolation, 4 and 3. Billy Black had the hottest back nine when he came to 18 needing a par for a 30. But here his luck ran out as he hit one out of bounds. Best comeback of the day was made by Lester Kelly in his first flight match with Jack Butler. Kelly was four down at nine and then rallied to take the match on the 19th hole.

Second round results:

FIRST FLIGHT—Tom Griner beat William Wright, 2 and 1; Lester Kelly beat Jack Butler, 19 holes; Richard Payne beat Fletcher Adams, 4 and 3; Ray Traylor beat Dan Garson, 1-up.

Thompson's Homer Gives Giants Split With Braves

Lanier Captures Five-Hitter, 3-1

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—Hank Thompson blasted a two-run homer in the eighth inning Friday night to snap a tie and give the New York Giants a 3-1 victory over the Boston Braves in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader. The Braves, held hitless for seven innings, pulled the opener out with three runs in the ninth, 4-3.

Homers accounted for all of the runs in the second game. Shortstop Johnny Logan cracked the first of his major league career in the fourth to give the Braves a 1-0 lead. Clint Hartung tied it up for the Giants with a homer in the seventh. Thompson scored Whitey Lockman with his 16th homer to lock it up in the eighth.

Larry Jansen appeared headed for his 12th victory of the season and 13the straight over the Braves in the opener.

The Giants entered the ninth leading, 2-1, on the strength of home runs by Dave Williams in the first inning and Clint Hartung in the second, but the Braves quickly erased the deficit.

'Little Mo' Rips Kiner In Net Meet

MANCHESTER, Mass., Aug. 15—(AP)—All of the foreign threats were eliminated Friday as Maureen Connolly, the 17-year-old National and Wimbledon champion, led the way into the semi-finals of the Essex Country Club's invitation singles tennis tourney.

Accompanying the international titlist were Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., 1942 winner here, Shirley Fry of Akron, Ohio, and Anita Kanter, National junior champion from Santa Monica, California.

Miss Connolly, with surprising ease, overwhelmed Mrs. Nancy Chaffee Kiner of Palm Springs, Calif., 6-1, 6-1. Most of their previous engagements went the three-sets limit. But Friday the champion managed to double Mrs. Kiner's point production, 56-28.

Miss Brough, out of action last season with a shoulder injury, showed much of her oldtime skill while defeating Mrs. Thelma Long, the Australian titlist, 6-2, 6-3.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 15—(UP)—Dick Marlowe, 23-year-old Detroit Tiger farmhand, pitched the second perfect game in the history of the International League Friday night, retiring 27 batters in order as the Buffalo Bisons defeated the Baltimore Orioles, 2-0.

Marlowe, a right-hander who stands six feet, three inches and weighs 175 pounds, was with the Tigers briefly in 1951, losing one game. He had a 10-10 record with Toledo in 1951 and a 7-10 mark with the same club in 1950. He attended Davidson College for one year before entering organized baseball with Flint in the Central League in 1948. He hails from Hickory, N. C.

Barber, Douglas Notch 67 to Tie Middlecoff for Kansas City Lead

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 15—(AP)—Pint-sized Jerry Barber and slim Dave Douglas mastered the Milburn Country Club course for five-under par 67s Friday to go into a tie with Cary Middlecoff for the half-way lead in the Kansas City Open golf tournament.

The three pace-setters for the 72-hole, $15,000 meet each had 36-hole scores of 135, nine strokes under par for the 6,208-yard Milburn layout.

Middlecoff, the Memphis, Tenn., dentist and one of the game's greatest stars, shot a 68 Friday after opening with a 67.

Cary, a solid 6-foot 2-inch, 185-pounder, failed by an inch of sinking a 25-foot putt on the 18th green that would have given him the undisputed lead.

Sixty professionals and 10 amateurs qualified for the last two rounds of play. The pro bracket ended with a high of 151.

Julius Boros

Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N. C., golf's leading money-winner, shot a commendable 71 Friday, but tacked onto his opening 76, he still was 12 strokes off the pace and has a long way to go.

Four players had 67s. In addition to Barber and Douglas, big Jim Ferrier of San Francisco and Gene Webb of St. Louis were among the lows for the round. Webb had a 36-hole score of 141, Ferrier 152.

All the top 20 players were 141 strokes, three under par for the distance, or better.

Ed (Porky) Oliver, the popular round man from LeMont, Ill., remained in a contending position with a 68 Friday that gave him a half-way total of 137 strokes, only two away from the top.

Barber, a dapper little 137-pound, 5-foot 5-incher from Pasadena, Calif., shot the steadier game among the leaders. He had five birdies and thirteen pars in his 34-33 round, missing only one green.

Lipon Single Lifts Bosox Over Yankees

Parnell Relief Helps Hudson Outduel Bombers' Sain, 3-2

BOSTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—Out-hit by a 12-6 margin, the Boston Red Sox maintained their perfect 1952 Fenway Park record against the New York Yankees Friday by defeating them here for the fifth straight time, 3-2. Timely aid from Mel Parnell enabled Sid Hudson to outduel Johnny Sain on the pitching mound. Johnny Lipon's two-run single in the seventh clinched matters for the Red Sox.

Parnell took over after Hudson gave up the second New York run and with two out, had Yogi Berra representing the the typing run on second and Gene Woodling on first. Parnell then retired the Yanks by making Joe Collins force Woodling.

Mel Parnell

With Parnell down for a start in the current series, Manager Lou Boudreau permitted him to pitch to only one batter and had veteran Al Benton on the mound in the ninth.

Benton got the first two batters before Sain and Hank Bauer lashed him for singles. Jim Brideweser, who ran for Sain, was straining on third gase when Scooter Rizzuto dribbled into a force play to end the game.

Bauer doubled, Rizzuto beat out a but and the former scored the first New York run on Berra's fly in the opening inning.

A Dom DiMaggio single, an infield out by Billy Goodman and Clyde Vollmer's double put the Red Sox into a 1-1 tie in the sixth. Then they bunched three of their half-dozen hits with an intentional pass for two more markers in the seventh.

Hoot Evers launched the Red Sox's lucky seventh with a single and Dick Gernert doubled down the third-base line. Sammy White was passed to load the bases and Lipon rapped his game-winning hit into center field.

Sain then set down Hudson, DiMaggio and Goodman in order. He gave up only one hit during the first five innings.

Marciano, Walcott Bout Still Pending

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—The Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano heavyweight title match still had not been made Friday after another week of hemming and hawing.

Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, conferred with Felix Bocchicchio by telephone without coming to terms. Bocchicchio is standing pat on his demands for 42½ per cent of the gate and Norris is offering 40 per cent.

Despite the delay, there were indications the bout might be set early next week. Sept. 23 is the date and Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium now seems to be the likely site.

Jersey City has been given serious consideration with IBC officials studying stadium blue prints for tentative seating plans.

However, the huge Philadelphia stadium appears to be the final answer when and if they agree to all the details.

Slaughter, Brazle Lead Cards Over Bucs

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 15 (AP) — Enos Slaughter's seventh-inning single and Al Brazle's relief hurling combined tonight to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 54 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. The loss by the last-place Pirates eliminated them from any chance for the National League pennant.

Jacobs, Fraser Knotted For JC Lead At 217

Moultrie's Moore Cards 76 for 224; Raines Totals 225, Bates Has 230

EUGENE, Ore., Aug. 15—(AP)—Medalist Tommy Jacobs caught Scotty Fraser on the 18th hole Friday to tie for the lead in the National Jaycee junior golf tournament here.

Jacobs of Montebello, Calif., started the day two strokes behind the Panama City, Fla., youngster, and was still two behind when they reached the 18th.

There the 16-year-old Fraser slammed his second shot on the par five hole into a tree. It bounced out of bounds, and he incurred a two-stroke penalty.

Jacobs, playing the same group with Fraser, at once hit an iron 200 yards to the green, the ball stopping 30 feet from the pin. While Fraser was settling for a bogie six on the hole, Jacobs putted up for a birdie that pulled him even with the Floridan.

Fraser, who had an even par round on the 6,600-yard Eugene Country Club course Thursday, again equaled par Friday for 145-72—217. Jacobs, who is 17, had a two-under-par 70 for a 217 total.

These two will go into the final 18 holes Saturday with a three-stroke edge over their nearest competitor, Ken Scott, 17, of Rockford, Ill. Scott, who has been improving every day, had a two-under-par 70 for a total 220.

Nicky Gustin, Birmingham, Ala., who equalled par 72, is next with 222, followed by the first-day leader, Roger Boyd, Tacoma, Wash., 149-74—223, and three players tied at 224. They are Don Bisplinghoff, Orlando, Fla., who had a 76 Friday, Larry Moore, Moultrie, Ga., also with 76, and Jerry Stolhand, Maplewood, La., who had 74.

Augusta's Jimmy Raines turned in Georgia's best Friday round, firing a 73 for a 225 total. Tommy Bates of Atlanta, carded an 80 and has a 230 total.

At 232, after a 77 Friday, was Jack Lumpkin, of Athens, Ga. and one stroke behind came Norrie Wright, of Dublin, Ga., who checked in with an 80. Gene Howerdd Jr., of Augusta, was at 236 after shooting a 79.

Bisplinghoff, who has been playing steady golf, had his worst round of the week. He said his hand, hurt from a ruptured blood vessel, bothered him particularly on chip shots and putts. In addition, an iron shot wound up against an out-of-bounds marker and it cost him two strokes to place the ball in playable position.

Jacobs' round was his second sub-par effort here. He had a 68 in the opening round of qualifying play Monday. In Friday's round he produced five birdies, 10 pars and three bogies. Fraser had three birdies, 12 pars and three bogies.

Sponsored by a new Atlanta motorcycle club, the "Green Hornets," the races will feature such top-notch Southern riders as Buck Brigance, Charlotte; the Simmons brothers, Woody and Milton; James Alger, Miami; Charlie Bishop, Laurens, S. C.; David Caldwell and Horace Travis, Nashville, and Tommy Norris, Jacksonville.

Don Hembree

Buck Bragance

The Ted Edwards trophy competition, inaugurated in 1948, will be awarded to the rider who wins three races at Lakewood. Three riders, Billy Huber, Buck Brigance and Don Hembree, already have their names on the trophy twice.

McPhail Leads Sales

SARATOGA SPRINGS, Aug. 15—(AP)—Larry MacPhail, the baseball magnate turned thoroughbred breeder, emerged as the leading consignor to the Saratoga yearling sales as 27 colts and fillies offered by his Glen Angus Farm of Bel Air, Md., drew a total of $195,200 Thursday night in the annual yearling sales.

This tally, coupled with a record-average group sold by the Nydrie Stud Farm of Daniel G. Van Clief of Charlottesville, Va., brought the total for the night to $412,900, nearly equal to the amount sold during the first two nights. A total of 57 yearlings were sold at the Fasig-Tipton sales paddock.

Waycross Gets Braves Farms Deal

WAYCROSS, Ga., Aug. 15—(AP)—Eight clubs of the Boston Braves' baseball farm system are to train in Waycross next year.

Under terms of an agreement signed Friday between representatives of the National League club and the Waycross and Ware County Chamber of Commerce, about 250 to 300 players will train here for eight-week periods during the Spring for the next five years.

Clubs slated to get in shape here will be Quebec, Can.; Hartford, Conn.; Evansville, Ind.; Eau Claire, Wis.; Appleton, Wis.; Danville, Ill.; Hagerstown, Md. and Harlan, Ky.

The former air force base just outside Waycross city limits will be the training site. Using funds provided by the Waycross Industrial Committee, city and county construction forces will prepare four baseball diamonds and a batting practice field and will renovate ten buildings for quarters.

Exhibition games will be played in Waycross' new Memorial Stadium.

The Braves are to pay $2,000 a year rent for five years and presence of the camp is expected to result in the spending of $150,000 to $200,000 here each Spring.

FIRST-AID SPECIALISTS

Relief Does Pay, Avers Rookies

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—It pays to be on relief as far as rookie pitchers Hoyt Wilhelm of the Giants, Joe Black of the Dodgers and Eddie Yuhas of the Cardinals are concerned.

After a year of relative obscurity as starting pitchers in the minors in 1951, these three relief specialists have made the switch to the bullpen with such startling results this season that they're now being considered for Rookie-of-the-Year honors.

Wilhelm, Black and Yuhas, while posting formidable won-lost records, also have been effective game-savers for their clubs all season.

A 29-year-old knuckleball artist, Wilhelm has appeared in 46 games in relief for the New York Giants, winning 10 and losing two for a .833 percentage, second best in the league.

The six-foot, 190-pound native of North Carolina has allowed 34 earned runs in 109 innings for a 2.81 earned run average. He has permitted 92 hits, walked 92, struck out 44 and has finished 19 of his relief roles.

Hoyt Wilhelm

Joe Black

Last season with Minneapolis in the American Association Wilhelm posted an 11-14 record and a 3.94 ERA. He took part in 40 games, starting 29 and completing 12.

Black, a valuable asset to the league-leading Brooklyn Dodgers, wasn't even on the Brooklyn roster this spring. The rugged right-hander, in boasting a 9-2 record, has seen action in 37 games in a relief capacity.

He has an earned run average of 2.51 on 22 earned runs in 79 innings. He has been touched for 62 hits, 23 walks, has fanned 47 and has finished 24 contests.

The 28-year-old "fireman" saw action with both Montreal of the International League and St. Paul of the American Association last season. His tenure with these two clubs was mostly in starting assignments and he did nothing to distinguish himself.

Black recorded a 7-9 mark with Montreal and his ERA was 3.85. He made 13 starts and 13 relief appearances. With St. Paul he won four and lost three, starting seven times and relieving twice. Black registered a 2.25 earned run average.

Yuhas has been a real asset to the St. Louis pitching staff. He has an 8-2 mark in 41 games.

In 77 2/3 innings, the 27-year-old relief ace has given up 22 runs for a 2.54 ERA.

At Rochester in the International League in 1951, Yuhas accumulated a 13-11 record and owned an earned run mark of 3.04. He started 25 games, completing nine.

RUSSELL TAKES REINS

Grady Gridders Boast Fullback From Germany, Improved Passing

By CHARLIE ROBERTS

Erskine Russell is in no danger of being investigated by the NCAA for the sin of high-powered recruiting as he goes about the business of coaching the Grady High football team for the first time, but he will have a talented fullback in the lineup from Germany.

Russell, the former Auburn star, believes that 170-pound Wilbur Lofton, who comes to Grady after a long stay in Germany and a short stop in Marietta, will be one of the finer line-cracking runners. Lofton's father was stationed in Germany for several years, and young Wilbur was with him.

Grady, which finished in a tie for third place in the City League with 5-4-1 last year, will sorely feel the loss by graduation of backs Larry Frank, Tommy Hanson, Bobby Silverman, Bill Benson, Rupert LeCraw, and Ken Hagerman, and linemen Jerry Froug, captain Bill Cromwell, Bobby Landers, Dale Herndon, Harry Mazier, Jimmy Harper, and Don Grogan.

The Grey Knights, who will run from the Notre Dame box more than from the T this year, will be a far better passing team this outing, a department in which they were futile in 1951.

Richard LeBlanc, the hard-luck quarterback who was out because of injuries all last year, appears to be an able tosser, and Sid Reese gives the Parkway Drivers a throwing threat from the southpaw side, a real weapon when used properly.

Jeff Davis, the track speedster who is one of the fastest halfbacks in town, also has something more than a noted Southern name. He stacks up as a top running back and a passer of note. LeBlanc probably will do the punting.

Linebacking should be a Grady strong point this year. Center Lenny Jacobs and Walter Stovall were first rate and both are back. Walter Childs was one of the better tackles a year ago, and Allen Ecker, a first-rate offensive end. Norman Bush figures to be one of the better defensive ends. Landrum Wooten, an end shifted to halfback, may be one of the surprise backs of the season.

Harry McDevitt, a crashing tackle, and guards Pete Brandt, Mike Trotter and Bob Hornik are others who saw considerable game action a year ago and figure to be bigger and better.

Grady was one of several city league teams that started practice Friday rather than waiting for Monday, the day when all the others will hold first drills. Grady's first game will be against coach Ernie Teel's always-tough Gadsden in the Alabama city Sept. 12. Aiding coach Russell in his first year as head coach are backfield coach Dooley Matthews, end coach John Haldeman, B-team mentor Red Whitsett and eighth grade tutor Harry Carroll.

Bums' Bavasi Bills Leo the Lip For Tossing Balls to Fans

BROOKLYN, Aug. 15—(AP)—Leo Durocher received a bill for $20 Friday from the rival Brooklyn Dodgers—for generosity.

The Dodgers said it's okay for Leo to be generous, but not with their property.

Buzzy Bavasi

Leo Durocher

So they want him to pay $5 each for four Brooklyn baseballs which the impish New York Giant manager tossed to fans Thursday at Ebbets Field.

Leo says he won't do it.

The unusual little rhubarb came about this way:

Last week when the Dodgers were playing at the Polo Grounds, Billy Cox, Brooklyn third baseman, became piqued and tossed two foul balls into the stands.

This raised the fur on Durocher's easy-to-inflame neck. The Giant skipper said just wait, for every ball Cox threw away he would double it when he got to Ebbets Field.

It happened Thursday. Six foul balls were hit down the third base line where Leo was coaching.

Durocher mischievously threw four of the pellets into the stands.

"Mr. Durocher will pay at the rate of five dollars per ball," stormed Buzz Bavasi, Brooklyn vice-prexy in charge of stray baseballs. "Payment will come in the form of a deduction from our check to the Giants."

The Big League baseballs, which each club must provide on its home grounds, reportedly cost $2.50 apiece but the club price is nearer $1.50.

"Let him try to collect," said Durocher.

Never-Win Waco Clinches Cellar

WACO, Texas, Aug. 15—(AP)—Waco dropped its ninety-seventh game Thursday night to become the losingest team in professional baseball, but nobody even thought about firing the manager.

Tedd Gullic, the former major leaguer who became skipper of the downtrodden Pirates in the Class B Big State League this season, can't understand it.

Sports Editor Gets KOed, But Baseball Needs the Stitches

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Aug. 15 — (AP) — Sports Editor Dick Hudson of the Charleston Daily Mail was knocked out Thursday night when the Senator first baseman Fred Taylor made a wild throw in a pre-game practice session.

Hudson's comment after he was revived:

"They had to take three stitches in the ball."

Gator-Miami Tilt Hangs on Malloy Crux

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 15—(INS)—The fate of Florida's biggest football grudge battle — Miami vs. Florida—was a subject of great controversy Friday when it was disclosed that a contract for the bitter encounter has not been signed.

The crux of the argument apparently is the presence of Gordon Malloy on the Hurricane roster, and the apparent fact that Malloy will be a mainstay of the Miami backfield during the coming season.

Malloy transferred to Miami from Georgia Tech in 1951, put in his year's residence to become eligible under university rules and passed scholastically.

However, Malloy would not be eligible under Southeast Conference rules, which are binding on member Florida but not on independent Miami.

Florida has long desired that the Miami school be bound by these rules, if for no other reason than to make Miami honor grants in aid issued by the Gainesville school for prospective athletes.

Whatever the reasons, a contract for the game has not been signed, and neither school seems willing to budge from its stand at the moment.

Gazelles Capture City Sandlot Title

Lawrence Graves and Maurice Davis teamed up to hurl a five-hitter Friday night at Center Hill as the 10th Street Gazelles won the City Senior Sandlot championship by defeating Exposition Cotton Mills, 21-8.

Graves smacked two doubles, David Hughes collected a triple and double, and Charles Callahan slammed three-bagger to pace the Gazelles at the plate.

Wells Captures Third Snipe Title

GREEN LAKE, Wis., Aug. 15—(AP)—Ted Wells, 45-year-old Wichita, Kansas, sailed his "Good News" to his third national snipe championship Friday on Green Lake.

Wells, with crewman Art Lippit, also of Wichita, will represent the United States in the Western Hemisphere championships later this year at Clearwater, Fla.

BEES BUZZ BUT BILL IS STILL
W. E. Leverette, State Bee Inspector, Is Oh, So Gentle!

Bee Pollination Heightening Georgia Legume Seed Yield

By GENE METHVIN

Most Georgians look upon the bee as a bane, but to the state's beekeepers and enlightened farmers, the little worker is a boon.

For pasture and conservation-conscious farmers have discovered that a couple of hives of bees per acre will do more for their legume seed yields than tons of fertilizer.

And to Georgia beekeepers, the little honeybee brings $1,700,000 cash yearly—comparable to the pimiento pepper crop.

Experience shows that two colonies of bees per acre will increase clover, lupine or lespedeza seed production from 30 to 400 per cent because of the better pollination, W. E. Leverette, Georgia Department of Entomology bee inspector, explained.

BEES HELP APPLES

The Agricultural College of Iowa reported that one colony per acre of clover will increase seed production as much as 15 times. Apple crops are doubled when bees are kept in the orchard for pollination, Leverette said. And the honey is a cash crop in itself.

Georgia has 1,500 beekeepers who cultivate an estimated 200,000 colonies. They are mostly either farmers after seed production or apiary operators who sell the honey, package bees for new hives, and beeswax.

South Georgia's gallberry honey and north Georgia's sourwood blossom honey are two of the nation's premium honeys, C. H. Alden, state director of entomology, declared. Georgia's mountain area is covered with millions of acres of sourwood blossoms that waste each year, he said.

"Georgia has the best natural bee pasture and fewer bees than any state in the nation," a U. S. Department of Agriculture spokesman said recently.

GREAT POTENTIAL

"The state has a great potential income from bee and honey sales and increased seed production as the state changes from row to pasture and cover crops," Alden said.

L. C. Dotson, president of the North Georgia Beekeepers Association, pointed out that the United States has to import 500 million pounds of honey yearly. Only 187 million pounds are produced in this country, he said.

The average price of honey is around 40 cents a pound, he reported.

"Some beekeepers have gotten as much as 450 pounds of surplus honey from one colony in a year," Dotson bragged. "Properly handled, a colony should yield 100 pounds surplus."

Dotson went on to explain the bee colony's municipal organization.

A colony usually starts with about 12,000 bees, and 100,000 is a full strength producing colony. But since a queen bee lays 3,000 eggs daily, it doesn't take long to produce.

DEMONSTRATIONS

The Department of Entomology has decided to increase its demonstrations for county fairs in the fall, since the exhibits at the Macon State Fair and the Atlanta Southeastern Fair were so popular. The exhibits included glass hives and demonstrations of bee manipulation.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has allotted over $100,000 for a campaign to popularize honey and bring more farmers to keep bees for better pollination.

Bee men contend that the bee will give more for the time and money invested than any hired hand or livestock or field crop. Dotson aptly summed it up:

"Give them a place to stay, and bees will board themselves and work for you for nothing."

FACES 60 DAYS

Ex-Solon Asks Jail Term Stay

A former state senator now employed by the state has asked the Pardon and Parole Board to save him from going to jail.

Grover C. Land of Drybranch was sentenced to 60 days in the Bibb County jail on two charges of drunken driving. He has filed an appeal and is now free on bond.

Parole Board member Charles A. Pannell said that Land, now employed in the state sales tax office in Macon, has applied to the three-member board for clemency and is slated to appear before it Wednesday.

Pannell added that the board is making a routine investigation.

"We have to investigate whenever a request for clemency is made," he explained. "Land normally would be eligible for parole after 20 days and we would have to investigate then anyhow."

The board, however, has the authority, if it chooses to exercise it, to grant a pardon, issue a parole or reduce a sentence any time after sentence is passed, even though a court appeal is pending, Pannell reported.

"We get a good many requests like this," the board member said. He added, however, that the board has acted favorably only once and that on a plea in which the State Welfare Department joined on the grounds that an emergency situation made clemency desirable.

Assailant Bites Off Part of Man's Nose at Airport

A 33-year-old Atlantan, listed by police as J. J. Freeman of 1686 Flat Shoals Rd., S. E., had a large part of his nose bitten off at the Municipal Airport parking lot, according to a police report.

Freeman told Ptl. M. J. Maloof and A. M. Howle that the assailant bit a large section of flesh from the right side of his nose and ran. The incident happened as Freeman was entering a car.

Grady physicians told police "a considerable amount" of plastic surgery would be required for Freeman.

Ptl. Maloof and Howle, in their report, said the attacker accused Freeman of "calling and seeing my wife."

DR. DICK HALL ADMIRES MURAL IN LIBRARY AT DECATUR BAPTIST CHURCH

With Him Is Miss Cecelia Moore Who Painted the Mural as Her Thesis in Art

Pupil Paints 1st Mural For Church

By YOLANDE GWIN

The first student ever to receive a Master of Fine Arts degree from the Atlanta Art Institute painted a mural as her thesis, without benefit of models.

Miss Cecelia Moore, of 1091 Springdale Rd., came from her home town in Wewoka, Okla., to attend Atlanta's famed art school.

Three months were required to paint the mural in the children's library of the First Baptist ← Church in Decatur. The theme is "World Peace Through World Christianity."

Shown in the mural is Christ with children representing all nations.

EXPLAINS SYMBOLS

The column stands for the search for knowledge and truth. At the base of the tree is the crown of thorns and the flowers of spring. The birds reflect happiness, sunshine and love.

Miss Moore says:

"Before planning the mural, I studied the wall on which it was to be painted. Then I had to find a theme that would be appropriate for the particular room in which it was to be painted—the children's library.

SUITABLE FOR CHILDREN

"My theme and drawing had to be suitable for children and yet mature enough for grown people to appreciate it.

"In arriving at the effect I wanted," she continued, "I painted the mural in a 'fake fresco' technique. That is, I used oil paints, applying them in a transparent manner, building up the final effect by applying one color on top of another.

GIVES LUMINOSITY

"In this manner the white wall the mural is painted on, glows through the paint giving it a luminosity that cannot be achieved in any other way."

The talented young artist who holds an AB from Georgetown College in Georgetown, Ky., was advised in her first mural by Robert Rogers and Joel Reeves.

She chose a religious theme because as she says, "I was born and reared in a Christian home."

A quiet unassuming young girl, Miss Moore is a pretty brunet, who enjoys music, plays tennis and handles a sailboat with as much ability as her paint brush.

Spanish Women Want To Enter Bull Ring

By MARJORY SMITH
Constitution Staff Writer on European Tour

MADRID, Spain, Aug. 15—Women are invading the Spanish bull rings—in the new role of toreador.

The dark-eyed senoritas formerly were content to sit in the spectators' gallery, tossing roses and flashing smiles at the triumphant bullfighter covered with blood and sand.

Now, according to mournful reports by shocked caballeros of Madrid, the gals yearn to wear the bullfighter's tight pants and scarlet cape.

A few of them do, although women toreadors are not allowed in Madrid's Plaza de Toros, scene of Sunday afternoon bullfights which week after week draw enthralled crowds of natives and tourists.

Female bullfighters are edging into Spain's colorful national sport on the outskirts, in the "little" rings where many toreadors-to-be win their first "oles."

I saw an 18-year-old blonde senorita enter the ring with a hoof-stamping bull at Los Labajos, a ranch in the Pena Negra area 50 kilometers from Madrid.

GIRL TOSSED

The slender girl, Maria Farmacia, followed veteran toreadors and drew frenzied applause when she was thrown into the air by the snorting bull—then got up and came back to make more passes with her cape at the enraged animal.

Afterward the pretty senorita shrugged off a gored and bleeding wrist.

"I have been hurt worse," she told me through the interpreter. "This is a scratch, my mother will bandage it. If you want to be a toreador, you must expect to be hurt sometimes when you do not step swiftly."

Maria wore soft boots, gray corduroy trousers, and white shirt for her appearance in the ring. She strutted around the bull, waving her borrowed red cape, and cried out little insults to arouse the animal.

Senorita Farmacia and other Spanish women who aspire to the curious art of the toreador appear to see nothing strange about their ambition.

EASY MONEY

In a country where women may be seen drawing carts and doing the heaviest type of menial chores, bullfighting seems to some an easy way to pick up a few pesetas.

Maria, accompanied by her little brother, bicycled all the way from her home in Madrid to appear at the bullfight. After the contest, she mingled with tourists to watch native dancers perform.

"It was for me an exciting day," she said shyly. "And because I am hurt in the ring, they will send my brother and me back to Madrid on a bus!"

The female bullfighters do not have the wholehearted approval of their male colleagues. Marquez Juan Jiminez, who has earned his living as a picador for many years, grew so excited in discussing the situation that an interpreter had to slow him down.

MEN OPPOSED

"No place for senoritas, the bull ring," Senor Jiminez declared. "I am told senoritas are allowed in the rings in Mexico, that even you have an Americano woman toreador.

"Already every little boy in Spain has the ambition to grow up to be a toreador. If the little girls have that ambition—no, no, that must not be!"

But Senorita Farmacia, her eyes filled with dreams, smiled.

"It was an exciting day, today," she repeated. "And some day, I think, perhaps they change that rule and let women be toreadors in the Plaza de Toros of Madrid."

Miss Starr Is Wed at Church

Miss Dena Louise Starr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Starr, was married to John Roy Thompson at a pretty ceremony solemnized Friday evening at the Cascade Baptist Church, with the Rev. Jesse Bell officiating.

Mr. Starr gave his daughter in marriage. Her sister, Mrs. W. C. Smith, was her matron of honor.

Bridesmaids included the bridegroom's sister, Miss Sarah Thompson, Misses Frances Hagy, Joanne Eady and Betty Beavers.

The bride chose a bridal gown of Chantilly lace and white satin. She wore an illusion bridal veil which cascaded from a coronet of net.

The bridal bouquet was fashioned of fleurs d'amour and white orchids.

The bridegroom, who is the son of Mrs. John R. Thompson and the late Mr. Thompson, chose his cousin, Billy Cleveland, as his best man. Usher-groomsmen were Larry Cobb, Dan Hardin, Ernest Johnson, and Dan Watson.

The couple left for a wedding trip to Daytona Beach. They will reside at 223 Warren Way in East Point.

Costume Jewelry Has That Covered-Up Angle

By AGNES McCARTY

This season's crop of costume jewelry is causing as much bauble babble as Empress Negako's missing crown.

And like the Japanese Diet dilemma — the similar story a covered up angle. Noted costume designer Michael Paul advocates a "bib" type necklace hugging the neck and completely covering the chest.

Michael—Mikado of the cultured pearl designers—has introduced a decorative ring of Paul Bunyan size. The giant ornament features an adjustable shank which allows for easy sizing but permits an unbroken finger band.

Paul has stepped up his usual pearly gait by utilizing colorful stones that repeat the blue of sapphires, yellow of topaz, red-wine of rubies and the blue-green of turquoise.

Another leading jewel house created "three dimensional" pieces for three moods—tailored, cocktail and evening.

Gold, bronze and platinum necklaces of vari-shaped links are suggested for turtle-neck blouses and sweaters.

Other tailored pieces include pins formed into golden leaves with baguettes forming the stamens; bracelets of taffy-colored oblongs separated by plain gold baguettes and earrings of golden musical clefs.

The same house offers a side-drape pearl bib swooped up with a rhinestone clasp and tear drop pearls cascading from the side of the drape.

Another evening necklace is a swirl of baguettes on a linked chain with delicate circles of rhinestones adding glitter.

Jewelry creator Majeska offers a twenty strand bib of small baroque pearls with a wide bar clasp closing studded with rhinestones. Matching earrings combine small pearls and rhinestones in a shower arrangement.

Majeska also designed a choker necklace of faceted hearts separated by spears of graduated rhinestones.

While Queen Elizabeth's collection glows from ermine and the order of the garter, American women will anchor regal jewelry from such strategic spots as pockets, sleeves, lapels and hair.

Decatur Club Sets Classes

Decatur women can start to class this fall along with their youngsters, to brush up on homemaking skills.

The Decatur Woman's Club is planning to sponsor classes in "how to make" lamp shades, curtains and draperies, hooked and braided rugs and interior decorating.

To be held at the new clubhouse, 2139 East Lake Rd., classes will convene in the mornings, afternoons or evenings, according to wishes of class members. The number of class sessions will depend on the demand, says Mrs. Hugh H. Harris, club official planning the school.

Club members will have the first opportunity to enroll, with registration open to all Decatur residents if vacancies remain.

The interior decorating class is definitely set up for weekday evenings Mrs. Harris reports.

Lady Lawyer Aims To Please Clients

By DOTTY LUNDY

When Mrs. Frances Dwyer, prominent Atlanta lawyer, decided to redecorate her office recently, she had a problem. Most of her domestic relations cases mean women clients. Yet she didn't want an atmosphere so fussy as to offend the men seeking legal aid.

Mrs. Dwyer solved her problem with pleasing results. Entering her office a visitor sees inviting walls of Bataan Brown, a cocoa shade. The ceiling is a soft cream.

The original Menaboni bird prints in her office could adorn a lady's boudoir as appropriately as a masculine den. Mrs Dwyer's fondness for birds extends to her drapes which have a brown and green color motif predominating.

One of a Series

She and her lawyer husband, who occupies an office in the same suite, have made a hobby of collecting curios from all over the world. She proudly displays a sandlewood box from India, an English antique silver toaster now serving as an efficient letter rack, an ornate brass inkwell from the West Indies and a bronze figurine from France.

Venetian blinds let in plenty of light. Several green plants add a deeper hue to the moss green in the carpet and harmonize well with the brown walls.

Shelves at either end of Mrs. Dwyer's office are stacked with legal books, giving the lady barrister's office a professional air without seeming austere.

After a Florida honeymoon, Sgt. and Mrs. Roberson will reside at Camp Lejeune, N. C., where the former is stationed.

Boiling, Soaking Dried Beans Conserves Nutritive Value

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

A time-saving way to prepare dried beans without sacrificing any of the nutritive value has just been reported in the home economics magazines.

The beans are put into boiling water, brought to the boil, boiled for two minutes and allowed to sit for an hour in the hot water. Then they are cooked in the same water. The two-minute boil and hour-long soak give results comparable with the old-fashioned overnight soak.

FUN WITH FOODS

Food nutrients are conserved by using the same water for soaking and cooking, and it is acceptable practice to add that pinch of soda that Grandma always put into beans to soften them a little.

MAYBE YOU THINK you have done all there is to Frankfurters that can be done, but here is a recipe to challenge that thought. The oriental combination of pineapple and green pepper flavors in a sweet sour sauce is suitable for good old frankfurters as well as chicken or ribs. The cornstarch glaze and soy sauce add characteristic browness and pungency.

FRANKS HAWAIIANAISE

1 pound frankfurters
3 green peppers
½ cup pineapple chunks
2½ tablespoons soy sauce
2½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
½ cup vinegar
1 cup chicken broth or boullion

Remove stems and seeds from peppers and cut in inch squares. Boil in water in a skillet you can use for the rest of the preparation for about 10 minutes. Drain. Add franks and pineapple to green pepper. Mix soy sauce, cornstarch, sugar, vinegar, and stock; pour over mixture in skillet and simmer uncovered about 10 minutes or until sauce is transparent. Serve hot on fluffy rice or fried noodles. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

RAISIN COOKY STRIPS are mighty handy to have around when friends drop in on a hot afternoon for a refreshing drink. The combination of raisins, oats, peanut butter and honey makes them eligible for top honors in the lunchbox, too.

RAISIN COOKY STRIPS

⅓ cup seedless raisins
⅓ cup shortening
⅓ cup granulated sugar
3 tablespoons honey
3 tablespoons peanut butter
1 egg
1 tablespoon milk
½ cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon mace
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon baking powder
⅔ cup quick-cooking oats
1 tablespoon honey
1 teaspoon melted butter

Cover raisins with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Drain. Cream together shortening, sugar, honey and peanut butter. Stir in beaten egg and milk. Sift flour with salt, spice and baking powder and blend with creamed mixture. Stir in raisins and oats. Spread in greased shallow 8-inch square pan. Combine the remaining honey and butter and pour evenly over the top of dough. Bake in a moderately hot oven, 375 degrees, about 15 minutes. Cut into strips. Make 32 strips.

Movies in Review

F-Family A-Adult

By PAUL JONES

Two new entries went to the post in the movie derby Friday. Both look like winners for the entertainment stables.

The two new openers are "Francis Goes to West Point," a wacky comedy about a talking mule who upset the dignity of the military academy and "Walk East on Beacon," a tense spy drama which is keynoted by an authentic story, told in a realistic fashion.

For a closer look read on:

"Francis Goes To the Races" is a continuation of the fantastic adventures of an educated mule, who not only talks but peers into a crystal ball to predict events in the future. If you haven't seen one of the series featuring the talking mule, we'd advise you not to pass up this frothy, diverting movie at the Fox which is definitely the best of the "Francis" movies. It is strictly nonsense—but strictly fun. The four-legged actor outpoints his human co-stars in the acting department. Donald O'Connor makes the most out of his role as straight man for the mule's gags. It's at the Fox. "F" classification.

"Walk East On Beacon" is the latest movie to dramatize the flawless sleuthing of the Federal Bureau of Investigation." It stacks up favorably with "House On 92nd Street" and other real life whodunits of recent years. We saw this thriller at a private screening, attended by a group of FBI agents. They subscribed to the authenticity of the FBI maneuvers and to the authenticity of the story which motivates this excellent film. Impact is achieved through exceptional camera work and superb direction. Excellent characterizations are supplied by George Murphy, as an FBI agent; Finlay Currie, as the scientist who matches wits with Russian spies and Virginia Gilmore, a key figure in the espionage ring. It's at the Paramount. "A" classification.

'Global' Fabrics

New fabrics emphasize the global theme.

If you haven't seen the Sphinx or the ruins of the Parthenon, don't despair. You can have vivid portrayals of old-world scenes right in your home.

Bird watchers will be pleased also. Audubon hand prints suitable for framing or as coverings for cushions make their appearance on white or ivory chintz for background.

Meeting Changed

Your Stars Today

Daily Guide—There could be a little reaction this morning with a tendency to be critical of your world and others; see if you can't find something good about it and them! After a rather discontented beginning, things could brighten up in the evening with some little surprises and unexpected happenings.

Happy Birthday, Leo! You might be in a rather belligerent mood but you would be wise not to take things into your own power and possession right now. Next month you have a chance to gain more through your loved ones, and you could find your position in life enhanced, or receive a promotion if you don't push too hard or crowd your luck.

Study Way to Slimness

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If you would like to acquire the art of living happily slim ever after, pull up a chair. This is the final column in our summer series.

The most important part of reducing is to re-educate your food habits so as to control weight . . . otherwise you will be tempted by every fattening food that comes along, and be forever trying to diet.

If you have lost 10 pounds and this has brought your weight down to healthy normal, from here on just exercise intelligence about eating.

Until you have the new food habits fairly fixed, be alerted against slipping back into the fattening ways of eating. If you can keep from over-indulging on the foods that boosted your weight in the first place, then you can eat good meals and not pile pounds back on.

A little daily exercise is important . . . six to 10 minutes will keep tone in the muscles and bolster your resolve to continue the slimming . . . and discourage a return of the pounds.

Make it a rule never to let the scales climb more than two pounds without taking action. The keeping-slim trick is to lose those two pounds ere they harden on again.

Here is the basic list of food by which you can plan your own reducing menus:

Use daily	Calories
Eggs: 1 or 2	75- 150
Milk: 2 glases of skim milk or buttermilk or 1 oz. yellow cheese plus 1 glass milk	160
Fruits: 1 citrus, plus 2 others	250
Vegetables: 1 dark green leafy, 1 starchy, 1 other	165
Lean meat, fish or fowl: 4 to 6 oz.	250- 300
Bread, 2 thin slices	100
Butter, 2 half pats	50

Cotton Futures Continue Rise

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—Cotton futures were again firm today. Final prices were up 85 cents to $1.65 a bale. At the day's best levels, prices for some contracts were up around $1.75 a bale or at new highs for the current move.

Buying of cotton futures was again attributed to the same influences that have been boosting prices during the past several weeks. Primary consideration has been given to the tight spot cotton supply position. Reports that temperatures over widespread sections of Texas have soared over the 100-degree mark for the 13th consecutive day also brought buying into the market as it was feared that the crop in the big producing state was being damaged.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service today estimated total consumption of cotton in the United States during the five-week period ending Aug. 2 ,at 675,000 bales, compared with 696,000 in the four-week period ending June 28 and 768,000 in the five-week period July 1 to Aug. 4 a year ago.

Grain Sales Very Slow

CHICAGO, Aug. 15—(AP)—Grains held steady for most of the session and then drifted downward toward the close on the Board of Trade Friday.

Chief feature was the lack of interest in the market. Aside from fair-sized commission house buying in soybeans at the opening, the trading pace was very slow all day. Most of the late selling, which was not heavy, appeared to come from local traders who wanted to be out of the market over the weekend.

Wheat closed ⅛-¾ lower, September $2.33⅞-2.34; corn unchanged to ⅝ lower, September $1.79⅝-¾; oats ¼-⅜ lower, September 84⅜-½; rye ½-1¼ lower, September $2.11¼; soybeans ¾ lower to 1¼ higher, September $3.21¼-½, and lard 10 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower, September $11.25.

BUSINESS ROUNDUP

3 Bogies Hit Dixie Economy

By ALEX JOINER

Three bogies dominated the South's economy during the first half of 1952, according to a half-year review issued here Friday by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Major influences, BLS said, were a sharp upward movement in retail food prices as a result of the drought, a continued depression in the textile industry, and the steel strike.

There was "little evidence" of recovery in the textile market, although there was some indication of firming at midyear, the review stated. There were some optimistic reports, but in general they occurred only where government orders were held.

Approximately 56,000 workers in the region were idled by the steel strike, the review added, and construction dropped substantially during the period, mostly as a result of the completion of major portions of atomic energy projects.

On the bright side, the report pointed out, department store sales recovered from a bad sales slump and significant wage increases were granted truck drivers, petroleum, chemical and telephone workers.

Rudolph Promoted

Scott Paper Co. Friday announced the appointment of Henry S. Rudolph as Atlanta retail district salesmanager.

H. S. Rudolph

Rudloph went to work for Scott as a retail salesman in Philadelphia in 1948, later moving to Tampa. He transferred to Knoxville as retail district sales manager in 1949 and was assigned to Dayton, Ohio, in the same capacity at the time of the new promotion.

Agency Places Third

The Atlanta agency of The Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York took third place among the company's 24 Southern Division agencies in volume of insurance sold during July, the company reported Friday. Charles J. Currie is manager of the agency.

Bethea Elected

Charles G. Bethea was elected president of the Life Insurance General Agents and Managers Club of Atlanta at the annual meeting this week. Other new officers are James M. Thurman, vice-president, and John Kell Martin, secretary-treasurer.

Clarke Appointed

C. M. Clarke Jr. has been appointed supervisor of employees' service at the Georgia Division of Lockheed Aircraft Corp. at Marietta. He was formerly special course instructor in the training department.

Few Issues Move on Slow Mart

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—The stock market went through a routine session today with the smallness of business being the only distinguishing feature and prices slightly lower at the close. It was a typical Friday performance for the summer months, with only a few issues moving out of a fractional range while the composite rate of the New York Times index fell back 0.54 point.

A few stocks were helped along by corporate developments but in the main the list just drifted around helplessly without the benefit of any sustaining or adverse factors to influence the course of prices. The rails were hard pressed to maintain a steady course despite a momentary lift given this division by the spurt in Illinois Central in the wake of an increased dividend on the common stock.

Volume on the stock exchange contracted sharply and at times the ticker tape reporting quotations hardly moved. Trancactions of 890,00 0shares, the smallest since July 21, compared with Thursday turnover of 930,000 shares.

Trading took place in 1,038 individual stocks and, at the end of the session, 405 showed inroads, 339 gains while 294 held unchanged. It was the narrowest session since July 23.

Most major groups were mixed to lower at the close. Motors were only altered slightly with the steels a bit to the lower side. Chemicals, rails and oils were mixed while the aircrafts and electrical equipments exhibited a firmer tone.

Dry Goods

NEW YORK, Aug. 15—(AP)—A slight increase in second-hand offerings of print cloths in the cotton goods market was reported Friday. Supplies were made available at fractions of a cent under mill quotations. However, the goods were quickly snapped up by buyers, owing to the firm raw cotton prices.

Very little business was going on in the worsted and woolen goods market. Recent declines in raw wool values has caused buyers to adopt a cautious attitude.

Rayon goods also were quiet, although firm prices were quoted on all types of goods. Finished cloths sales remained good.

A Rhyme a Day

"Many childhood diseases of several generations ago have been conquered, but children, as well as adults, are more allergic than in the past."—Health column quote.

Most anywhere you go today . . . you find, to your surprise . . . old people who are bright and gay . . . with clear and sparkling eyes . . . with good complexions and with hair . . . that's growing thick and long . . . who have some energy to spare . . . and still are going strong.

From past experience, we know . . . their childhood days were spent . . . when children were allowed to grow . . . (at least to some extent) . . . unhampered and unpampered, too . . . so long as they were nice . . . and did what they were told to do . . . and listened to advice.

They slept where they were told to sleep . . . and ate what they could get . . . their shoes, if any, were so cheap . . . their feet were often wet . . . and yet they took it as it came . . . the hot days and the cold . . . you wonder, how in heaven's name . . . they lived to be so old.

There were a lot of hardships then . . . and yet they lived and thrived . . . again, perhaps it might have been . . . the fittest who survived . . . or, on the other hand, they may . . . have learned to do without . . . all of those allergies which they . . . had never heard about.

Explorers Bury Victim Of Fall in Cave Bottom

LICQ-ATHERY, France, Aug. 15—(AP)—Four stranded explorers tonight buried the body of a dead comrade, Marcel Loubens, under a pile of stones in the Pierre St. Martin cave 1,153 feet beneath the Pyrenees, and culled their gear to save themselves.

In telephone consultation with a surface crew standing by at the mouth of the cave far above them, the exporers had decided it was virtually impossible to bring out the body.

Before the burial they removed Loudens' wedding ring for his widow and his father. Then the men set about discarding surplus equipment, so none would be weighted by more than 22 pounds for the ascent.

They were distrustful of the cable gear, which had failed under Loubens' weight, and two winches were rigged so as to prevent a death plunge to the bottom.

It was the snapping of a steel cable that fatally injured Loubens, 33, second in command of a speleogical expedition led by Belgian physicist Max Cosyns, as he was heading for the surface Wednesday after five days underground.

His back broken by a fall of 120 feet, Loubens died last night despite the efforts of a physician, Dr. Andre Mairey, and three companions to save him.

Loubens was a Paris industrialist who liked to explore caves. His father pleaded today for removal of his body first at all costs.

But most members of the expedition feared that, swinging at the end of a rope, it might set off rock falls that would endanger the others at the bottom.

With Mairey were Haround Tazieff, a photographer; Jacques Labeyries, son of a former governor of the Bank of France; and Bernard Occhilaini, an Italian-born Briton.

Too fatigued to climb up by ladder and refusing to trust themselves to the cable, they had slept during the day beside Loubens' body.

Norbert Casteret, a member of the expedition, was stationed at the cave's mouth with a field telephone set.

Supply Hike For Atlanta Gas Asked

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—The Atlanta Gas Light Co. today asked for an increase in its natural gas supply to meet demands for the 1952-53 winter season.

D. A. Crawford, operating vice-president, told a Power Commission examiner the company wants 346,553,000 cubic feet daily from the Southern Natural Gas Co.

Crawford added that the company would want an additional 6,970,000 cubic feet a day when a pipeline is run to the Augusta area.

The company's testimony came at the end of a week's hearing of a consolidated case involving several applications to serve areas of Georgia, South Carolina, Alabama and north Florida.

The hearing will resume Monday when testimony will be presented by the Newton County Gas Co. of Covington which would serve local customers in addition to supplying gas to the Army at the Atlanta General Depot near Conley, Ga., and to residents of the Holland Park housing project located on that reservation.

Crawford said that the Atlanta company needed more gas because of accelerated building, increase in new customers, demand for heating gas for apartment houses, schools, churches and offices.

Crawford's written testimony also listed these possible points for natural gas in the future: Stone Mountain, Pine Lake, Clarkston, Tucker, Fairburn, Union City, Riverdale and Cartersville.

Delta-C. & S. Merger Seen Adding Jobs

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15—(AP)—A Delta-Chicago and Southern Airlines merger and authorization of proposed new flight schedules would result in more company jobs, W. T. Beebe, C. and S. vice-president for personnel, said today.

At a hearing on the merger plan he told a Civil Aeronautics Board examiner that a consolidated Delta-C. and S. system would need an estimated 411 new employees if the additional flights are authorized.

He broke this figure down as follows: 40 pilots, six flight engineers, 143 maintenance workers, 158 agents, 30 stewardesses and 34 clerical and administrative employees.

Beebe and R. H. Wharton, Delta personnel director, testified on personnel policies that would be followed if the merger goes through. Hearings on the plan will continue next week.

Even without CAB approval of the projected new routes, the witness said, no more than 20 of the company's 4,200 employees would lose their jobs under a merger, and, they added, any discharged employees would get generous severance pay.

POLICE IN LEAD

House Moves Across City In Jig Time

When housemover Wylie Truitt starts to move a house, he does it, traffic or no.

"But people have to use those streets," the officer said.

"I've gotta move my house, too," Truitt, operator of a heavy-moving concern, said. And he did, too.

Three miles through commuter traffic at 6:30 p. m. Friday Truitt took his 16x48 foot shed from Peachtree and Fourth St., down West Peachtree and Spring, out to Pelham St., N. W., where he has a construction job.

The city, which issues housemoving permits, had said Truitt could move at 11 p. m. But the large, jovial man, who in the past has incurred suspended fines for blocking traffic and damaging city property in connection with similar housemovings, police records show, waited until the heaviest of the traffic was over at officers' orders, and set out with his police motorcycle escort.

"Is that thing moving or setting?" startled motorists screeched to a halt to ask. But once Truitt started, he moved in a hurry and in a surprisingly short time the operation was complete.

It's no trouble to move a house, Truitt said, but chagrined police just shook their heads.

Hartsfield Blasts Move To Restore Fulton Police

Mayor Hartsfield Friday fired a brief, stinging blast at a reported drive by Fulton commission members to revive the county police force abolished Jan. 1 by the Plan of Improvement.

"It's just another effort to break down the plan," Hartsfield said when he was told Commissioner R. L. (Shorty) Doyal had said the commissioners hoped to confer soon on the idea with the legislative delegation.

The police proposal was first mentioned Aug. 6 when commissioners discussed a move to take over maintenance of city parks and streets. Commissioners Doyal, Hailey and Aldredge have indicated they favor a county force.

Commissioner Camp has said he prefers to see the present system given more time.
